DEVELOPS IN MEXICO

ORGANIZED UNION OF NORTHERN STATES AGAINST HUERTA
RULE IS EXPECTED.

FIGHTING AT NOGALES

American Troops Guard the Border
But Receive Special Orders Not to Return Mexican Fire.

Mexico City, March 13.—News from those northern districts which have not yet accepted the Huerta government continues to cause apprehension here. The junction of the citizens and troops of the state of Sonora with the constitutionalists is regarded as of considerable importance. Significance also is attached to reports of the close affiliation of the states of Sonora and Sinaloa with lower California and the territory of Tepic. It is believed likely that the two latter will join in the movement.

Carranza Loses Ground.
On the other hand the insurrectionary movement under Carranza appears to be a thing of the past. The surrender of Carranza and his forces is expected at any time.

During the debate on the amnesty bill last night, a deputy from Sonora asserted that the reason for Governor Maytorena's revolt was his fear that the new government would demand an accounting of the state funds.

There have been no marked developments in the negotiations between the government and the Zapata brothers that promise of co-operation by other leaders in the south had been made.

Firing at Daybreak.
Nogales, Ariz., March 13.—Firing began at daybreak on three sides of the Mexican town of Nogales. The Sonora state troops used grenades in their attack.

Numerous bullets crossed the international boundary during the early hours of the day to the residence district.

About eight o'clock the firing became desultory. Colonel Kosteritzky sent for Dr. A. L. Gustetter to care for the wounded. Seventy-four Chinese under guard from the immigration office have been removed to the American side for safety. At 8:30 Dr. Gustetter, who had crossed the line to attend the wounded, reported that seventeen of the defenders had been killed and eleven hurt. At this time the firing became scattering and was mostly centered upon the left flank. The United States troops patrolling the border unlimbered two machine guns on Tombac Hill commanding the two towns.

Troops Guard Border.
At the outbreak of the battle Captain C. Smith, in charge of the Fifth United States cavalry, deployed his men along the border and sent word to Fort Huachuca that the fight had opened.

The warning, however, had been anticipated and before daybreak a train bearing three additional troops of cavalry and a machine gun platoon under command of Major Tate was on the way to the scene of hostilities.

The American troops guarded the border to prevent either party crossing the line and warned residents of the American town to keep inside their houses to avoid stray bullets which fell frequently in the residence district.

Forbidden to Fire.
Washington, March 13.—American troops on the Mexican border have been forbidden to return the fire of Mexican troops except on specific authorization from the war department.

This instruction has been sent by direction of Secretary Garrison to Brigadier General Bliss commanding the border forces, in conformity with the war department's purpose to remove all possible causes of friction between Americans and Mexicans, especially in the neighborhood of Nogales, the center of the fight between the contending Mexican factions.

Are Encouraged.
Nogales, Ariz., March 13.—Encouraged by federal defeats at interior towns and the bloodless victory yesterday in taking the port of Agua Prieta, one thousand Sonora state troops today attacked Nogales, Sonora, opposite this border town and customs port. The promise of reinforcements from General Ojeda's five hundred federalists making a forced march from the eastward border town, the 250 men of the Nogales federal garrison made a determined defense against the onslaught of the constitutional forces.

Bullets showered into the Arizona town, which is divided from the Mexican town by a business street. Up to noon one Mexican citizen had been wounded on the Arizona side.

Rush Troops.
United States troops rushed from Fort Huachuca were spread along the international line keeping back the curious. The first charge of the insurgent troops was repulsed with a loss of from fifteen to twenty, declared the federals, while the garrison defenders early in the day lost at least seventeen killed and eleven wounded.

SECOND DOUBLE TRACK ACCIDENT IN A WEEK

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
La Crosse, March 12.—The second fatality within a week due to double tracking occurred at Dresbach when Richard Goodie, a farmer, residing a few miles from here, stepped from one track on the Milwaukee road to escape a freight train directly in front of a passenger train. Goodie was hurled a distance of 25 feet and his neck broken. A widow and four children survive.

THREE WHITE HOUSE
WEDDINGS POSSIBLE

President Wilson Has Three Marriageable Daughters—Speculation as to Thirtieth Bride.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., March 13.—For the first time since the brief administration of President Taylor the presidential household has three marriageable girls forming a part of it. The advent of the President and Mrs. Wilson and their three "bachelors" daughters has naturally aroused Washington society to speculation as to the possibility of one or more White House weddings during the administration now begun.

The first White House wedding took place a little more than a century ago, when Mrs. Madison's younger sister, Lucy Payne Washington, widow of a nephew of George Washington, was the bride.

During President Jackson's administration three weddings took place in the historic mansion, those of Della Lewis of Nashville and Alphonse Paget, a member of the French legation; Mary Easton, a niece of Mrs. Jackson, and Lucien B. Polk, and Emily Martin, a relative of the President, and Lewis Randolph.

The next White House wedding was that of Elizabeth Tyler, daughter of President Tyler, and William Walter of Virginia. The next was the famous wedding of Nellie Grant and Algonson Sartoris.

The White House weddings of late years, in the order in which they took place, were those of Emily Platt, a niece of President Hayes, and General Russell Hastings; Miss Frances Forsom and President Cleveland, and Miss Alice Roosevelt and Nicholas Longworth.

The list to date totals an even dozen. Now the question asked is whether one of the Wilson girls will flout superstition and become the thirtieth White House bride.

Fight is Expected on House Floor.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 13.—The assembly committee on judiciary was unable to agree on any recommendation to the assembly on the divorce counsel bill and it was reported back to the assembly this morning without recommendation. The bill that was pending before the committee asked for the repeal of the law, which was enacted by the legislature two years ago. Judge E. Ray Stevens appeared with a number of other judges sometime ago and asked that the present law be retained. It is forecasted that this bill will bring a merry fight on the floor as many of the farmer members are opposed to the law.

The bill by Senator Huber to permit the judge in the county court of Dane county to sit in the municipal court during the absence of the judge was recommended for passage. The McComb bill increasing the penalty for larceny by a value was recommended for indefinite postponement by the committee. The committee heard arguments yesterday afternoon on the Laursen bill aimed at preventing unprofessional conduct in the practice of medicine.

MATERNITY RIGHTS DENIED TO TEACHER

New York Woman Asks School Authorities for Year's Absence
With Pay in Which to Rear Child.

New York, March 13.—Although the plea of Mrs. Catherine C. Edgel, the Brooklyn high school teacher, for a year's leave of absence without pay in which to bear and rear a child was denied by the board of education last night, Mrs. Edgel believes she has started a campaign for honesty and candor which eventually will receive recognition by the school authorities.

In a pecuniary way Mrs. Edgel really is the gainer. By the refusal of the board to grant her request she has filed a physician's certificate as to her health, which will entitle her to leave with 90 days' pay in addition to two months' vacation the coming summer.

It was said among her friends, however, that this solution of the problem, which is one which teachers have hitherto followed under these circumstances, was not at all satisfactory to those who desire to have the board of education recognize the privileges of maternity among the women teachers of New York.

The action of the board was declared as virtually barring motherhood from teachers. There was talk enough of taking the case to the courts, but no confirmation of these plans was obtained.

As declared that former President Taft had not gone far enough. That he should have taken a step farther and instead of transferring positions originally filled as reward for political service to the classified roll should have required an examination to determine fitness.

CHANGE IS PROPOSED AS TO APPOINTMENTS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Madison, March 13.—The assembly today advanced to engrossment the Storr bill providing for a new system of appointments of the state board of agriculture and fixing the membership at 7. The bill is the plea of Mrs. Nora P. Jeanson, Oshkosh, who has spent much time in the legislative halls in its interest.

Under the bill the members are to be selected by a commission representing the leading agricultural men in the state instead of by the governor. Speaker Hull appointed a special committee for the assembly to confer with a committee of the Michigan legislature over uniform legislation relating to commercialized fishing in Lakes Michigan and Superior and a similar committee to confer with the Minnesota legislature pertaining to fishing waters dividing that state from Wisconsin.

By a vote of 57 to 36 the assembly advanced a bill providing that the fee for licensing motor vehicles be fixed on a basis of horse power.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Cettinje, Montenegro, March 13.—News reached here today that four Servian transports loaded with troops were yesterday riddled with shells fired from an unidentified war vessel. Accounts of the engagement from two different sources declare that the attacking vessel flew the Austro-Hungarian flag.

The transports were conveying strong detachments of Servian troops to assist the Montenegrans in their siege of the fortress of Scutari. The attack on the four boats occurred off San Giovanni li Medua.

Two of the transports were set on fire. The number killed and wounded has not been reported. Today's news of the attack on the Servian transports formed a tremendous sensation here.

In official circles, however, no credence was given to the part of the press dispatches relating to the Austrian flag.

Was Turkish Vessel.
An official report today says: "About 50 Servian soldiers were killed on board the Servian transport at San Giovanni li Medua on the Adriatic coast yesterday by shells from the Turkish cruiser Hamidieh. Much of the ammunition on the transport exploded."

Manitowoc, March 13.—Plans for a consolidation of the two Odd Fellows lodges of this city and the erection of a temple will probably fail because of opposition of the state grand lodge and disagreement over finances between the two lodges. Manitowoc lodge, a German organization, is said to have some $7,000 in the treasury while the Odd Fellows lodge owns a $5,000 building site and it was proposed to unite the two forces, but at a meeting of committees last night no agreement could be reached. The two lodges are among the oldest in the state.

Former Mexican President Will Keep "Hands Off" Unless United

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Naples, Italy, March 13.—Gen. Porfirio Diaz declared today that he would not return to Mexico. He arrived here this morning on the Adriatic. He appeared in excellent health. In reply to inquiries the ex-president said that his only desire was to be allowed to rest quietly. "All by efforts, however," he said, "will be toward assisting my country to reach a condition of prosperity. I would go back to Mexico only in case of intervention in the country by the United States. At such a time all Mexican citizens would be united against the foreign invader."

Gen. Diaz said that former President Taft had given him full assurance that the United States was not planning anything of the kind, "but nobody can tell," he said, "in what politics keeps in reserve or what the new American administration may project."

EXPECT BIG RETURNS FROM PEAT MARSHES

Conservation Commission Reports
Large Possibilities From 3,000-
000 Acres of Marsh Land.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, March 13.—That Wisconsin will soon find her acres of peat marshes an important source of revenue is the prediction contained in the report of the state conservation commission, sent to the legislature today. Estimates in the report indicate that these marshes may in the next half century yield a cash return from $300 to $4,800 an acre.

According to the report of the conservation commission about seven percent of the total area of the state, comprising nearly 3,000,000 acres, is marshy. The investigation shows that this land may be used for three purposes. It can be drained and used for the purposes of agriculture, or it can be held until such time as economic conditions will permit the marketing of finished peat or the land may be submerged and used as reservoirs for the regulation of stream flow.

If the peat in the marshes is to be used for fuel, the commission has ascertained that an acre of peat one foot thick will produce 200 tons of peat fuel. The compilations made by the commission indicate that within a few years this peat will be sold at a profit of from 50 cents to $1.00 a ton. In elaborate tables it is figured that allowing an interest charge of eight percent and holding the peat that the present value of an acre of peat two feet thick would be $276.

"When peat is suitable for special valuable uses, such as the manufacture of fibre board, its value is considerably greater than for use as fuel," continues the report. "Marginal of this kind should in all probability not be drained but kept for more profitable uses."

The commission recommends that the legislature change the present drainage laws so as to reduce the unnecessary great expense now attendant upon the organization of drainage districts that the legislature amend the constitution so that it may purchase marshes and that "the state retain the large marshes it already owns, which contain clean peat suitable for fuel and other purposes."

The ostracism of fallen women;

Low wages;

Assistant State's Attorney Johnston, in charge of the arson investigation, admitted today that many of the business and fire loss adjustors named in the stories of Fink and Danies have left the city.

ELECTRIC RAILWAYS IN FIGHT ON BILLS

Oppose Measure to Prevent Overcrowded Cars and Bill on Municipal Ownership—Recommend Crossing Measure.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., March 13.—The committee on transportation reported for passage in the assembly this morning the Nye bill to compel street, interurban and steam railroad companies to maintain highway crossings in cities, villages and towns in good repair. The original bill applied only to steam railroads, but the committee extended the scope of the measure. It was shown that a company would not maintain its crossings unless compelled by an order of the railroad commission, and the Nye bill fixes a heavy penalty to accomplish the purpose. The measure is general in scope and will apply to crossings everywhere in the state.

Regarding Crowded Cars.
The Jennings bill to prevent the overcrowding of cars and the permitting of but ten persons to stand when the seats are all occupied, was made the target of a general attack before the committee. George B. Wheeler of Eau Claire said that such ordinances enacted in other cities had resulted in failure. He said that when the public wanted to be transported it would not desire to be hampered by any such rule. Dudley Montgomery of the Southern Wisconsin Railway company of Madison declared that such a law would disappoint and aggravate the public. He told how the company attempted to supply a sufficient number of cars but sometimes was unable to estimate the demand. R. L. Stern of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company declared that an investigation made by the railroad commission of the service in Milwaukee showed that 20 per cent of the people who ride prefer to stand up. He said that of a million people carried in the city of Milwaukee the records showed that 40,000 were carried during rush hours. The committee took no action upon the bill.

For City Ownership.
Mayor J. S. Konkell of Superior advocated municipal ownership of street railways, particularly for his home city, in a hearing before the senate committee on corporations yesterday afternoon. Mayor Konkell supported Senator Linley's bills to permit the acquisition of such lines without the intervention of three years prior to the expiration of existing franchises. The bills apply only to companies not under the provisions of the public utility act. The Duluth Street Railway company refuses to come under the act.

Mayor Konkell declared the reason why the company refuses to build extensions is that the Commercial club started a suit before the state railroad commission for lower fares for Superior. He said that 3,000 workers on the bay front in Superior who now must walk to the street car line, a distance of two miles, would be benefited by the increased service.

W. R. Foley, attorney for the Duluth Street Railway company, said the proposed extensions would not pay and that they will be made when traffic conditions permit.

Other Speakers Heard.
G. S. Canright, attorney for the city of Milwaukee, favored the ends sought but advocated amendment of the bill to give a city the right before or after the expiration of existing franchises to condemn traction properties for municipal ownership.

C. M. Rosencrantz, attorney for the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company, opposed the bill as one that embodies a serious principle that might lead to serious results to vested capital.

Senator Linley said the bill ought to stand upon its merits in its application to all municipalities. If the Duluth concern were under the Wisconsin public utility act, the city might acquire its Superior properties by condemnation without further legislative act, only a plebiscite being requisite. He said the question of unconstitutionality need not be feared, for the property is not proposed to be taken without due process of law, with the city paying the company a good price. The principle had been upheld when the public utility act was sustained.

ture in Killing Reservoir Project.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Appleton, March 13.—The killing of the Batts bill in the legislature yesterday providing for a reservoir on the Wolf river means a loss of thousands of dollars to the manufacturers of the Fox River Valley as it was contemplated that with a reservoir of that nature the flow of water into Lake Winnebago could have been controlled sufficiently to enable the mills of the Fox being run most of the year by water. The reservoir plan was engineered largely by John I. Leggs who stated that the manufacturers of the valley from Neenah to DePere would pay for the reservoir in proportion to the amount of head they possessed on their power. It also believed that the flow could have been regulated so as to prevent Lake Winnebago overflowing the low shores.

MATTER OF PATRONAGE

Wisconsin Appointments Will Be Taken Up After Which Tariff Will Be Discussed—Washington Affairs.

Washington, March 13.—The hope of democratic leaders that they may swing many progressive republican votes in the senate in the tariff fight has the hearty approval of President Wilson.

It became known today that Mr. Wilson expected to have a conference with Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin in a few days and that conferences with other progressives will follow.

The first conference with Senator LaFollette is over the question of patronage. The president expects to discuss all Wisconsin appointments with him. It will be the first visit of Senator LaFollette to the White House in several years. Other progressive republican senators will be consulted about appointments in their states.

Conferences about appointments are probable to lead to attention to the legislative questions where Mr. Wilson thinks the democrats and progressives can stand together.

Twenty republicans drew chairmanships of what are known as the "minority committee," most of which are entirely inactive, but carry with them a slight increase in the clerical force.

The nominations of Dr. Beverly T. Galloway, chief of the bureau of plants industry, to be assistant secretary of agriculture, it was announced at the White House, would be sent to the senate today.

John Skelton Williams, a banker of Richmond, Va., will be offered a place as an assistant secretary of the treasury according to an announcement made at the White House today.

Clarke Named.
Senator James P. Clarke of Arkansas, democrat, was today elected president pro tem of the senate. Senator Clarke received 41 votes; Senator Gallinger, republican, 18; and Senators Clapp, Bristow and Borah, one each. Senator Clarke immediately was sworn and presided over the senate during the election of other officers for the new congress. Vice President Marshall retired from the chamber while the senate chose its officials. Senator Bristow voted for Senator Clapp, and Senator Clapp voted for Senator Bristow. The one vote for Senator Borah was cast by Senator LaFollette.

Makes Charges.
Charges that Carl A. Loeffler, acting assistant door-keeper of the senate, had been responsible for the disappearance of the Holstah certificate of deposit presented during the Lorimer trial in the senate, and which was never afterward located, were made in the senate today by Senator Gore of Oklahoma when Mr. Loeffler's re-election was proposed. The senator said his informant was a page of the senate who had delivered the certificate to Mr. Loeffler after receiving it from Senator Bailey.

Nominations Made.
President Wilson sent these nominations to the senate today: John Skelton Williams of Richmond, Va., assistant secretary of the treasury; Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, assistant secretary of the navy; Beverly Galloway, assistant secretary of agriculture; Edwin F. Sweet of Grand Rapids, Mich., assistant secretary of commerce; James E. Edgerton of New Jersey, purchasing agent of the post-office department.

Patronage Problem.
The question of patronage in several democratic states which have brought scores of democrats to the White House to push the claim of rival candidates, has been compromised by a plan worked out by two of President Wilson's close advisors.

According to this plan both the organization and anti-organization men will be recognized and an attempt will be made to satisfy all.

McCombs Refuses.
Chairman William F. McCombs of the democratic national committee told President Wilson today, during an early conference at the White House, that he preferred not to accept the post of ambassador to France in order that he might remain in private life and probably retain the chairmanship of the national committee.

President Wilson urged Chairman McCombs not to definitely decline the offer until he had considered it further, and Mr. McCombs agreed to do so.

Declines Invitation.
President Wilson today declined an invitation to be present on March 13, Governor Cleveland's birthday, at the dedication of the Cleveland birthplace in Caldwell, N. J., as a public memorial. The president wrote to John H. Finley, president of the College of the City of New York, expressing his regret and eulogizing the character of Mr. Cleveland.

CHILDREN IN SCHOOL REQUIRE MORE SLEEP

Teachers of Graded Schools of City Unanimous in This Opinion—Discuss Moral Betterment.

That Janesville school children as a whole keep too late hours and get an insufficient amount of sleep is the unanimous opinion of the sixty teachers in the graded schools who met at the high school auditorium last evening to discuss the possibilities of moral betterment among their pupils. Children from the lowest grades up come to school in the morning tired and sleepy, and the greatest difficulty the teachers encounter is to instruct them when in this condition. They are unattentive, dull of perception, and slow to comprehend. Various suggestions to remedy this condition were made by the teachers, among them the enactment and enforcement of a curfew law. Others thought that the best results could be achieved by obtaining a better understanding with the parents of the children and enlisting their co-operation.

TWO FARM BUILDINGS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Tobacco Shed and Cow Stable on Farm of Don McCann, Near Blind Institute Burned Today.

Fire of unknown origin this morning destroyed the tobacco shed and cow stable on the farm of Don McCann, near the Blind Institute. The fire started in the barn, was burned up in the quantity of farm machinery stored in the tobacco shed. It was only by the heroic efforts of the men and women on the farm, assisted by a few neighbors, that the horse barn was saved from the flames. Pails of water were used to wet the roof and exposed side of the building. The blaze started in the cow stable and had obtained good headway when discovered at about nine o'clock. The loss is partially covered by $1,400 insurance.

COMMITTEE INSPECTS ENTIRE BELT LINES

The Northwestern safety committee, at the yards, went on an inspection tour of the various belt lines in the city, which are the side tracks running up to the factories and warehouses. They reported that the condition of the tracks was very poor and necessary repairs will be made at once. At this time of year all tracks and roadbeds are in bad condition because of the thawing, leaving the roadbed in an uncertain condition. Water, which has soaked in under the ties and frozen, will expand and leave an unsafe spot when the spring thaw comes. The committee made a careful study as to what repairs will have to be made to put the belt line in a normal condition.

WAR ON SKUNKS WILL BE CONTINUED ON SUNDAY

"Burr" and "Snowball," the two victorious generals who met with so much success in their fight against skunks, are some ten dollars richer. Meanwhile the lure of gold has overcome their idea of safety first, and are planning another invasion against the skunk tribe. They have made elaborate plans of marching to the enemy's stronghold and laying a scientific siege against whatever battlements their enemy may have erected. Both are confident that with their modern instruments of war they can easily overwhelm the enemy despite any strong battery work on the part of the skunks. "Happy Hollow" is to be the battle ground and "Snowball" has offered to be the vanguard of the army and go down the hole and scout for the enemy. From all reports of the previous struggle he was the bravest of the two and will be promoted to chief skunk catcher. The roundhouse employees warn them to keep away from the yards with the spoils of the victory. Everyone at the yards hope that the polecats do not put up such a hard fight as they did before and that the two generals will have an easy time of their warfare and not cause the atmosphere around them to be quite so thick and blue.

FIVE NEW ENGINES STORED AT THE YARDS

Five new engines arrived yesterday afternoon from the Chicago shops and are being stored at the yards pending necessity for their use. The Northwestern company is making early efforts to meet the increase in traffic that will come during the warmer weather. These engines are of the very latest type and the numbers of them are as follows: 910, 912, 1150, 1152, and 986. Engines number 342 and 294 went to Fond du Lac on freight number 319 and 321.

WESTERN UNIVERSITIES DEBATE SHERMAN LAW

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Vermillion, S. D., March 13.—Arrangements have been concluded for the debate here tomorrow night between teams representing Creighton University of Omaha and the University of South Dakota. South Dakota will support the affirmative and Creighton the negative side of the question, "Resolved, That the Sherman anti-trust law should be repealed."

CITY OF MANITOWOC HAS JUDICIAL FIGHT

Municipal and County Offices Are Object of a Heated Election Fight.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Manitowoc, March 13.—Unexpected opposition at the eleventh hour to the election of Judge A. H. Schmidt of the municipal court developed last night when papers were placed in circulation for Harry B. Kelley, present city attorney and a prominent young democratic lawyer of the city. Judge Schmidt is the only man ever elected municipal judge in Manitowoc county to succeed himself in office. He has served two terms.

It is said Judge Choupeck of the county court who has a record of continuous official service in that office and others for 25 years will also have opposition this spring. Papers being in circulation for G. A. Forest.

IOWA NEWSPAPER MEN MEET IN WEBSTER CITY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Webster City, Ia., March 13.—Newspaper publishers, editors and managers in large number were on hand here today at the opening of a joint annual convention of the Upper Des Moines and Corn Belt Editorial associations. Various features of entertainment interspersed the business sessions of the meeting. The proceedings will continue over tomorrow.

CONNAUGHTS CELEBRATE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Ottawa, Ont., March 13.—His Royal Highness the Governor General of Canada, and the Duchess of Connaught today entered upon their thirty-fifth year of married life. Their wedding took place in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, March 13, 1879. The Duke was then twenty-nine years of age and the bride was nineteen. The Duchess before her marriage was Princess Louise of Prussia, daughter of Prince Frederick Charles, one of the most illustrious commanders of the Prussian army.

NEWSPAPERMAN FOR SENATE SECRETARY

Robert M. Gates, a Washington newspaperman, is generally looked upon as the probable winner in the race for the position of secretary to the U. S. senate. "Colonel" Bob, as he is called by his friends, has represented southern newspapers in Washington for the past two years, and knows more southern politicians than any other man. He is a commanding figure about the capital, and with his six feet four inches of height, topped off by his iron gray hair, is frequently mistaken by visitors for a senator.

BECOMES NURSE TO BE WITH HER FIANCE

Miss Marie von Klein, daughter of Baron von Klein of Chicago, a famous physician and member of a distinguished German family, became an army nurse in order to make the trip from the Philippine Islands aboard the U. S. transport Proteus, which reached San Francisco recently. It was not so much that Miss Marie cared for the trip around the world as she cared for the company of A. D. Miller, a lieutenant of marines, stationed on the gunboat Matagorda in Philippine waters, who was ordered to report at the San Francisco Presidio for another detail. Miss von Klein and the lieutenant were engaged.

DESIGN FOR STATE FLAG RECOMMENDED TO ASSEMBLY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., March 13.—Wisconsin may again have a state flag. The committee on state affairs of the assembly this morning recommended for passage the Holmes bill prescribing the design. The measure was asked for by the local G. A. R. H. W. Rood of the state U. A. R. headquarters and Arthur F. Bellis appeared in favor of the passage of the bill.

HOME DESTROYED; STILL HAVE LIVES

Chancellor and Mrs. Lloyd-George. That David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer of the British government, still has his life is due to the fact that he quickly slipped out of England a few days ago, just before his magnificent new residence in London was blown up. The structure was so badly shattered that it will have to be rebuilt.

SOUTH CAROLINA TEACHERS ASSEMBLE IN COLUMBIA

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Columbia, S. C., March 13.—An array of more than a thousand public school teachers and other persons actively interested in educational work took Columbia by storm today and will remain in possession of the city until the end of the week. The occasion is the annual convention of the South Carolina State Teachers' association. The formal opening takes place this evening and the regular sessions and department conferences will begin tomorrow. R. C. Hurts, of Greenville, is president of the association and will preside over all of the general sessions. A number of educators of prominence are here to address the sessions.

HE'S LONE SURVIVOR OF SHERIDAN'S RIDE

George W. Moore, of Scranton, Pa., has the distinction of being the only survivor of General Phil Sheridan's bodyguard on the famous ride from Winchester to Cedar Creek, October 19, 1864.

Of the fifty men who started with Sheridan on that memorable dash, Moore was the only one who was able to keep the pace until the journey's end. He is 76 years old, but is still young in spirit and enthusiasm.

KILL BILL FOR REMOVAL OF THE STOUT INSTITUTE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., March 13.—Senator Burke's bill providing that the Stout Institute be moved from Menomonie to Eau Claire to serve the purpose of a state normal school found no support before the joint finance committee yesterday afternoon, and it was recommended for indefinite postponement. It is conceded to be as good as killed already.

Senator Ackley of the Eau Claire district spoke against it. Nobody appeared in its favor. The committee heard arguments in favor of the bill to appropriate $265,000 for the Stout Institute, now a state-owned institution. Those who spoke were Superintendent L. D. Harvey, State Superintendent C. P. Cary, Dean L. E. Heber of the university extension division, and Warren E. Hicks, state supervisor of industrial education. No action has yet been taken.

Evidently Not in His Time. She—"There's always a crowd round the dear old professor. He's such a wonderful conversationalist." He—"Lor! You really think so? I tried him just now on every possible topic—boards, bridge, golf, music halls, everything—and he was simply useless."—Punch.

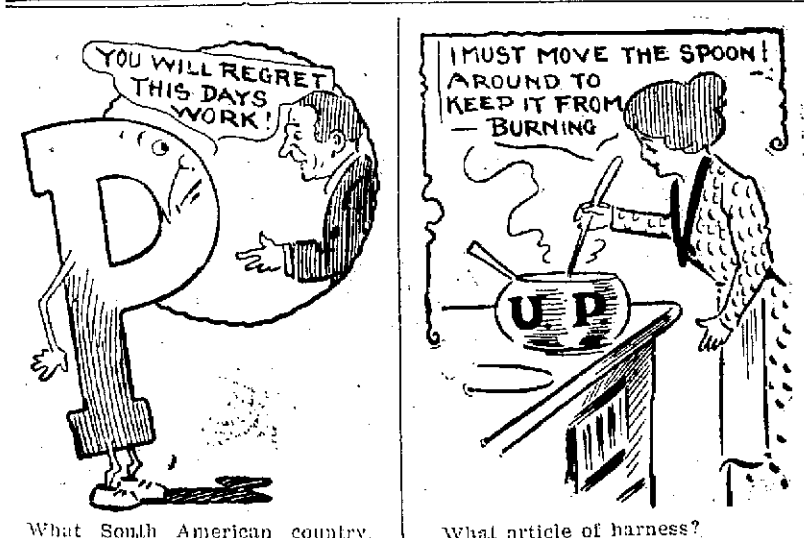

Hospitable. "Well, did New York appeal to you?" "Yes. It was 'welcome'—I came, and 'well done' when I—"

ATTRACTIVE DRESS FOR EARLY SPRING

Tints of early spring are suggested in this dress designed by "Dukes of Fairs." It is of olive green broadcloth, with a silk waist of the same shade. The yoke, of white silk, forms a delicate contrast. The skirt is a good illustration of the fashionable straight tailored lines with panel effect.

Chiropractic Adjustments Remove The Cause of Disease
With a Perfect Spine the Body Will Not Accept Disease. An Imperfect, Subluxated Spine Cannot Make a Well Body

HOW IS YOUR SPINE?
Hay Fever and Asthma, as well as all other diseases, are the manifestations of pinched nerves as they pass through the vertebrae from the spinal cord to the particular part of the body affected. Remove the pinch and the natural flow of energy from the brain makes you well. By taking yourself in hand today you can save a lot of money.

ASTHMA Janesville, Wis.
To Whom It May Concern:
I have been a sufferer with asthma for the past twenty years. After taking six adjustments from the local Chiropractor, I haven't been troubled with an attack since.
Along with asthma I had torticollis or wry neck. It gives me great pleasure to say to the sick and suffering of Rock County that after the aforesaid number of adjustments I am a well woman. (Original and signature of this letter on file in my office.)

GINK AND DINK.

Sport Shop Shots by Dad McCarty

Western States can't seem to get together in their opinions on boxing. Here, just the other day, Montana passed a bill legalizing twelve-round contests; while Colorado, next door in the sisterhood of states on the same day killed a bill to permit boxing contests under the supervision of a state commission. Opinions of pugilism apparently are as varied as ever.

Now Manager McGraw is trying Jim Thorpe, world's greatest athlete, in the outfield. Jim has played first base with indifferent success, has been nursed along as a possible pitcher by Coach Wilbert Robinson, and now finds himself where he can do the least possible harm, in right field. They say he has had some trouble in sizing up his new position. But how that redskin can bat!

The unpleasant experience of the United States which last year tried to compete in a small way with the American and National Leagues, apparently is no deterrent to ambitious baseball promoters. The Federal League has risen out of the ashes of the defunct U. S. circuit, and the promoters profess to believe that they can make it go. The big leagues apparently are not doing any worrying about curtailment of their profits. Taking most indications, it would appear that the country has about as much baseball as it can stand. Even where there has not been any counter attraction, minor league teams had hard enough financial sledding last year.

Ed Walsh, premier pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, is said to be in his old-time mastery form. In a recent game with the San Francisco Coast League team he uncorked a few kinks in the way of curves and spitters that made the natives marvel. He probably can stick around the big show for a season or so yet.

Speaking of Chicago, Ed Ruelbach of the Cubs also is in fine fettle. The Eviebies went over to Port Daniel near Tampa, Fla., a few days ago and played the soldier-boys an alleged game. Ruelbach pitched five innings and gave his signals himself, in a fashion visible to all. Even spotted that much the soldiers found him a puzzle, and their total of safeties came to two, garnered both by Private Bishop, one of them being a scratch hit on a bad bounce.

The argument which has arisen over the loaded ball question in the tournament of the American Bowling Congress at Toledo has had the result that the Ohio Bowling Association has announced that in its 1914 tournament, to be held in Toledo, loaded balls will be permitted. Cleveland bowlers have been especially warm in their adherence of the loaded ball.

American chances for prominence in the Olympic games to be held by the German Olympic committee, which has decided to eliminate from the program the international committee approving the shot put, discus and javelin throw with both hands, and to return to the old method by which the competitor was allowed to use his best hand. American competitors, unlike the Finns and Scandinavians, do not use the ambidextrous rule at home. The German authorities believe that one-arm development is natural. The standing jump will be eliminated, too.

SUGGESTIONS MADE BY APPLETON COACH

Advises Teams Who Expect to Enter Lawrence Tournament in Regard to the Best Form of Playing.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Appleton, Wis., March 12.—"I predict that the high school team that was the state champion in the coming tournament at Lawrence college will be the one whose coach is teaching his squad what might be called 'stereotyped basketball,'" declared Coach De Witt of Lawrence college today, while discussing the probable outcome of the ninth annual tournament to be held here on March 27, 28 and 29. "It might not be a bad idea," said the coach, "to send out a tip to prospective tournament teams that the weakness of a close guarding game has finally been discovered and the team with the new mode of attack is the one whose opportunities for scoring are increased and likewise the opportunity to win games." Continuing De Witt said:

"The basketball fans of today delight in seeing a game full of accurate and regular shooting just as the average basketball fan would rather see a 7 to 6 score than a 1 to 0 score. He also delights in seeing the game move fast and mechanically. The advancement of football and baseball along this line of unselfish team work has moved the progressive basketball coaches to think up a premeditated attack that will break up a close guarding game of the opposition and to increase the scoring possibilities."

"The problem is to break up this close guarding game and encourage team work. A solution has been found in the introduction of the blocking game. The ones to do the blocking should be the guards, since they generally are better adapted for this work on account of their heavier weight. The forwards, generally speaking, are lighter but the better shots, and accordingly can be utilized to better advantage if freed from their glue-like adversaries by their own guards, who can do the prying, thereby giving the forwards free rein to shoot."

"The time of attack in basketball, known as the psychological moment, is the second the opposition relaxes. This moment occurs not only once in a basketball game, but very often. Every time the ball goes out of bounds or when the teams line up after the caging of a basket is a moment of relaxation. In order to get the best results, 'strike while the iron is hot.' The plan of attack is to sacrifice the guards in the passing department of the game when the ball goes out of bounds, or, better still, to make them perform both the duties of a passer to his teammates and a blocker to the man of the opposition who tries to play the close guarding game on these occasions. "As the ball goes out of bounds the team which has caused it to do so immediately is put on the defensive. The old method of the offensive team, which is still used, was to try to evade the defensive line by dodging tactics. The new game is to have the guards outguess the opposition by playing a guarding game when the opposition feels they will run away. However, it is not to be surmised that you play the man who tries to play you; but, on the contrary, you block one of his teammates while he is attempting to follow you—that is, if a guard he picks out a man who tries to cover his forward and blocks this man for a second or so. A's forward will get free for a time required to shoot a basket. Cleverly performed, this act if performed by both guards of the offensive team, leaves the offensive forward free, with the possible chance of a foul being called on the defensive team because the guards while blocking also are guarded, putting two of the defensive team about one of the offensive. The plays devised to put this style of attack into practical execution are the kind, of course, that require a hard, heady bunch of players, and I believe that is what most of the eight teams that finally fight their way into the Lawrence tournament this year are made up of. No players of a roving type can hope to attain success with them, but, of course, basketball is like anything else in the way of athletics, persistent practice is the only means of gaining the desired end.

"If the teams in the other three sections of the state are anywhere near as good battlers as the teams in this section, I predict the games of the ninth annual Lawrence tournament will be the hardest fought and will develop the best basketball of any ever played at the state championship race. The teams of northern Wisconsin are so closely matched that it would be nothing but the merest guess to attempt to pick the winners of the three places to be awarded. I would advise, however, that the coaches in Marinette, Manitowish, Menasha, Waupun, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac and Hortonville in this section, and those at Janesville, Racine and in the clips of western Wisconsin whose teams will battle at Menomonie soon get busy on the tip conveyed in this interview, and get their teams in the finest trim possible, for none but the team with the best system of attack coupled with endurance will win places in this year's state tournament," concluded the Lawrence coach, who has given much time during the last few weeks studying the teams of the state that are likely to be selected as tournament timber.

RIVAL POLO TEAMS TO PLAY ON FRIDAY

East and West Side Aggregations to Meet in Polo Game Friday Night At The Rink.

Janesville Polo fans will have an opportunity of witnessing a polo game between two rival teams representing the east and west side, at the rink tomorrow night. This game was arranged on account of the rivalry between the two sides and will give the Moose team good practice to be in trim for the Richmond, Indiana team for the coming week.

The Polo team has been inactive for the last two weeks except for the practice that has been indulged in and all players are anxious to have a game. As there is plenty of cool material for the two teams the game should be hotly contested. No definite lineup has been given out as yet but the two sides will be evenly matched and a good game may be expected. When the old Janesville polo team was in organization games between sides would be the hardest fought of the season for rivalry between home talent is often stronger than that of outside teams. The team has practiced hard this week and are all uniting in their efforts to down the champion Indiana team next week. Plans are being made to hire a special train if the team goes to Racine to meet that team there. As the Racine and Janesville teams are tied for leadership each have beaten the other twice a large crowd of fans are expected to go to the Belle City if Manager Snyder arranges this game.

WOULD NOT WIN FIGHT THROUGH DECISION ON FOUL

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Chicago, Ill., March 12.—If Willie Ritchie, lightweight champion of the world, gives former champion Ad Wolgast a return contest for the title, it is more than likely that the fight would not be decided on a foul. Ritchie said today that any promoter seeking to match him with Wolgast will find it necessary to insert in the articles of agreement a clause to the effect that the man committing a foul shall not receive a cent of the gate money. Ritchie considers this proposition as fair to Wolgast as it is to himself.

YACHT CLUB REJECTS LIPTON'S CHALLENGE

Irish Sportsman Surprised at News But May Modify His Challenge To Satisfy New Yorkers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, March 12.—Sir Thomas Lipton challenger for the America's cup expressed the greatest surprise this morning when informed that the New York Yacht club had declined his challenge because it did not comply with the conditions of the contest.

Neither Sir Thomas nor the Royal Ulster Yacht club have yet been officially notified of the rejection of the challenge. Sir Thomas said he had not had time to consider whether he would amend the conditions of his challenge so as to meet the objections of the New York yachtsmen. He expects, however, to confer with his designer Nicholson of Gosport on the subject immediately.

OXFORD WINS RACE BY QUARTER LENGTH

Two British University Crews Fight Hard For Honors on Thames Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Putney, Eng., March 12.—Oxford won the annual boat race with Cambridge on the Thames today by a quarter of a length. The start was at 4:15. Cambridge took the lead at once and was half a length in front at the middle distance. Oxford overhauled her in the last quarter mile. The course was four and a quarter miles. Oxford's time was 20 minutes, 53 seconds.

SCHOOL GIRL; WEDS JUST THE SAME

Mrs. Gardiner E. Nottingham.

A marriage of unusual interest in social circles in Georgia was that of Miss Louette Roddenberry, youngest daughter of Congressman and Mrs. S. A. Roddenberry, of Thomasville, to Gardiner E. Nottingham, a prominent young lawyer of Sylvestor, in the same state. The event occurred in Washington. The bride is just out of school and had not yet made her formal entry into society. She has been a popular member of the school girl set in Washington.

Surprise for Mother. A Chicago school teacher tells with great gusto of the shrewd little "colored brother" who once arrived at school provided with a most unusual excuse for tardiness. "I couldn't help being late, please, teacher," he bubbled shrilly. "Somepin happened to us last night. My maw, she went ter bed with a headache, and when she wakes up dis mornin', dere's two little quins (twins) one on each side of her, and—she don't know nuffin 'bout 'em tell she wake up. An' my maw, she so sprised, she caint get up ter get me ready for school!"

Soaking Sapielgh. Sapielgh—"Clever? Oh, very! Why, she has brains enough for two. Miss Keen—"Then she's just the girl you ought to marry."

Outwitted the Cabby. One day it was raining very heavily in Berlin, and a wealthy merchant, on leaving the exchange, hailed a cab and asked to be driven to a distant part of the city. On the way the merchant discovered that he had forgotten to put his purse in his pocket. What was to be done? On reaching his destination he got out of the cab and said to the driver: "Will you please give me a match? I have dropped a gold-piece on the floor of the cab." Instantly the cabman whipped up his horse and soon disappeared round the next corner.

PRAISE PLAYGROUNDS.

Cities all over the country are looking into the problem of public playgrounds and increasing the facilities of those already established. Way back in the days when William Penn came over from England to bring his colony of Quakers to Pennsylvania and found Philadelphia, the original plot of the city he created, made provisions for breathing places of a square each, every few blocks, and these squares today remain, a monument to Penn. Opponents to the playground theory can advance no good reason why Janesville should not establish such play spots for the children. As has been stated before, Madison has already done so, it is true, largely through the philanthropy of its citizens, but still its yearly budget makes appropriation for the maintenance of the grounds thus set aside. With the advent of spring, with the desire of the children for out-of-door play after their long months of indoor life, this should be carefully considered. Last evening in Milwaukee, Prof. J. L. Gillin of the University of Wisconsin gave an address on this subject, and among the arguments he used in favor of the establishment and maintenance of such playgrounds were the following: "In this country where our cities are the melting pots of all the nationalities of Europe, the children's play is a universal language and the playground is a common meeting place where all races merge into one. "The playground is a greater social agency than the lessons taught in the schoolroom. Bad boys, so-called, as a rule, are only those whose natural play impulses have been smothered and have branched out into lines that are not as healthful as would have been the case had they been properly trained. The old primitive impulses again holds sway and the thoughts of the child are of sex at an age when such things should not be in the mind. "Healthful play is not only a physical but a mental stimulus and recreation. Many a man has been said to have risen to fame without an education, but how many have succeeded without the proper amount of play in their youth? We have been a long time getting play back in the schools in a thorough-going fashion."

CUNNINGHAM'S BILL.

Senator Cunningham of Beloit is the sponsor for the following bill which is of interest to every dairyman and stock-owner in his senatorial district. It passed the senate and now goes to the assembly for consideration. It is a good bill and one which will meet with hearty support of the senator's constituents.

Following is the text of the bill: The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Subsection 11 of section 1492b of the statutes is amended to read: Section 1492b 11. The owners of condemned and slaughtered animals shall receive compensation therefor from the state until June 1, 1915, as follows: For bovine animals condemned and ordered slaughtered by the board, on account of reacting to the tuberculin test, but upon whose carcass no tubercular lesions are found, the full appraised value, which in no case shall exceed one hundred dollars. For bovine animals condemned and ordered slaughtered on account of having reacted to the tuberculin test, upon whose carcass tubercular lesions were found at the time of slaughter thereof, three-fourths of the appraised value of such animal, but in no case shall the state pay more than fifty dollars for any such animal, and for other animals, three-fourths of the appraised value of same.

Section 2. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.

THE NEWSPAPERS.

So much has been said and written about the policy of conducting newspapers that the excerpts from an address by James Keeley, editor and general manager of the Chicago Tribune, at Madison, before the students in the course of journalism, will be interesting. Mr. Keeley hits the nail on the head in his talk and tells plain, unvarnished facts.

"Suppression of news is more of a wrong than the printing of a piece of news that might possibly better not have been written. By improper suppression a newspaper sells its soul and betrays its readers. Suppression of the news, to my mind, is the high treason of journalism."

"No paper that permits its advertisers or the personal, social, and financial friends of its editor to control or taint its news and editorial columns ever has become a big newspaper, a successful newspaper, or a newspaper that is respected by the people. The man in the street instinctively senses this sort of treason and he punishes."

"In the past there have been notorious examples of papers owned and controlled by politicians and the predatory powers. Some are dead, others have changed hands, and those that remain are leeches on the money bags that gave them birth and furnished the sustenance to keep them alive."

"The sneering belief expressed by so many that advertisers have a mortgage on the editorial columns of all newspapers is not true. There are free men and there are slaves in our business as there are in all lines of work. The newspaper field is not inhabited solely by saints, neither has any other profession a monopoly of the pure in heart. The average of honesty in the newspaper business, however, will compare favorably with that in any other trade or profession."

"The man who thinks he can betray his readers, the man who thinks he can let dollars supersede duty, the man who thinks he can let private interest dictate his policy—and doing these things secretly imagine that he can pose as a leader of public opinion, an exponent of right and honesty—is fooling himself, not the public. The public is canny and its eye-teeth are getting sharper every minute. The day of invisible government in the newspaper world, as in the political world, is vanishing."

"Honesty of purpose, and the determination to carry that purpose into effect, is the backbone of a newspaper's reputation. An honest man makes mistakes and a newspaper is operated and produced by finite minds. The decent newspaper wants to print the truth. A lie is a business boomerang. A newspaper's reputation for reliability is its stock in trade. In accuracy is the cardinal sin. Doubtless some papers are in need of abolition."

"That it is as hard to discover whether the news or the business end of newspaper work is the better field for a young man to enter, as it is to answer the ancient question, 'Which came first, the hen or the egg?' is the belief of Mr. Keeley."

"If you ask a man in the editorial, or news, department what is the vital force of a newspaper, he will say that the news end of the paper is responsible for its success," said the speaker. "If you propound a similar query to a man in the business department, he will say that it is the advertising revenue that makes it possible for a paper to maintain its efficient force of news gatherers and without advertising the paper could not exist."

"If I had a son and he wanted to enter the newspaper business I should hesitate as to whether I should suggest the editorial or the business end of a paper. There is certainly more fascination, more life, more go, in the editorial department, but, on the other hand, I believe if success is to be weighed financially, the advertising end offers a better opportunity. But money isn't everything. If, however, he should decide on the advertising end, I should insist that he first put in two or three years as a reporter. It would sharpen his wits and make him a better judge of mankind."

SUMMER'S PLANS.

This promises to be an interesting summer for lovers of good horse racing at the Park Association Park. Already the association plans for meetings Decoration Day, in July, during the Home Coming, a regular August race meet and again on Labor Day. The association has done much to improve the property they purchased and in time the old prestige of the Janesville track and Janesville race meets will be regained.

BOOST JANESVILLE.

More can be done by consistent boosting of Janesville and Janesville action than by discouraging talk. It is the duty of every citizen to make himself or herself a special committee of one to talk Janesville and its advantages on every opportunity. It is a good city to live in and a good city to talk about. Get busy and boost.

The advocates of disarmament for this country at least have the hearty and united support of Mexico. Man wants but little here below, but he wants that little built on the 1913 model.

Turkey is fighting it out on the same old line and the Allies are still demanding an armed peace that means destruction of the sick man's claims of any territory in Europe.

The first robins have been seen, pussy willows discovered, blue birds noted on arrival and the next thing is the first green sprouts on the trees to be noted.

As if enough people were not trying to write plays now, Paul Armstrong's automobile kills a man and Gus Thomas gets prominently mentioned for an ambassadorship.

Perhaps there's a sort of birds-of-a-feather affinity between get-rich-quick operators and taxicab drivers.

Mexico is setting a wretched example to its little brothers farther south on how to conduct a government.

Market reports say that prunes are going up. Well, they have been going down in the boarding houses long enough.

At any rate the "welcome" sign on the White House door mat is where the office-seekers can wipe their feet on it.

Even though New York's latest fire light is to be named the "William J. Gaynor," it probably won't be able to spout Greek.

The Ohio, Mississippi and the Missouri are about ready for their share of attention.

The arson trust was unable to hide its light under a bushel after all.

EXCURSION MOMENT

From the Hickeyville Clarion.

Hank Turner says his grandmother has got good eyesight. I wonder what other kind of sight he would expect her to have.

The fellow who said that nothing was impossible in the world never tried to discourage a life insurance agent.

There was a proposition to put some stained glass windows in the new meeting house, but the congregation decided that as long as they were payin' out good money they might as well get good glass that wasn't stained or otherwise damaged. Ald Man Hicks said perhaps a little soap and water or alcohol might make the stains off, but nobody listened to him.

Leon Higgins, who is takin' art lessons down to the city, has wrote home that he was going to paint a picture in oil. Seems like the first puff of wind that came along would ruffle it all out'n shape.

Grandpa Bibbins has quit waitin' for Bryan to be elected and now is waitin' for the price of beefsteak to come down. He must expect to live forever.

If every fellow's sanity was judged by the love letters he has written the insane asylums would have to turn 'em away and there wouldn't be nobody to act as keepers.

The main difference between vaudeville and the higher forms of dramatic art is that there is more money in vaudeville.

Amariah Tison, who is in the artificial limb business, says trade is picking up. He put on two new hands yesterday.

William Tibbitts has fired his clerk so that he can have an excuse to puff off a fire sale.

Ren Binks says you can't always tell a mild cigar by the wrapper. No, by ginger, or a mild woman, either.

Since hobble skirts went out of style Miss Amy Pringle has sewed up the bottom of hers and is usin' it for a laundry bag.

He has Some Sense of Humor.

There is a certain cigar clerk in this village who has got a highly developed sense of humor. We frisked into his place of business during the rush hour at noon yesterday and handed him a silver dollar with a plug in it that would fill a cavity in a rhinoceros' tooth. He said never a word but handed us one good nickel cigar. If you can imagine such a thing, and a handful of change. Then we hustled for the car.

The conductor came for his nickel and we handed out the change that we had received in the other store. Needless to say, it was our all. It consisted of the following:

One Mexican half dollar with a hole in it. It has been used for a watch charm.

One Canadian quarter (plugged).

Two horseless piano slugs.

Two beer checks redeemable in a New Jersey saloon.

The cigar clerk had a sense of humor.

The Ideal.

There ain't so far as I kin learn, no other face so sweet like her'n. Her neck is like the pretty swan; Her lips is like the cherries and her big gray eyes are simply grand. To feast your humble orbs upon. She's got a peck of golden hair and with a figger she is there?

She weighs one hundred eight-five I tell you what, she just suits me. If you'd see her, you would agree. She is the sweetest gal alive.

The ample damsel of my choice has got a fine contralto voice.

The first time that I heard her sing I couldn't make my heart stay still. She sounded like a whip-poor-will.

Or else an ostrich on the wing; I tell you what, she won my heart. She got my goat right from the start.

For vocal music I admire, I don't know much about technique, but I kin tell when voices squeak; Of her'n I know I'd never tire.

I fell in love, though you may scoff, and asked her for her hand, right off. She said it couldn't be arranged.

I tell you what, it was a blow, a knockout piece of news to know. Since then my views of life has changed.

She said I was a dream to see, but she could not marry me; And then she heaved a sad, sweet sigh.

She said she must obey the laws and simply turn me down because, She's married to another guy.

UNIVERSITIES OF EAST DEBATE CANAL TOLLS

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New Haven, Conn., March 13.—Harvard, Princeton and Yale are to meet tomorrow night in their annual triangular debating contest, and the event promises to be one of the most interesting of the college year. Yale and Harvard will meet at Cambridge, Princeton and Harvard at Princeton, and Princeton and Yale in New Haven. The question to be argued is, "Resolved, That the United States should exempt her coastwise traffic from Panama Canal tolls." In each case the home team will support the negative side of the question.

FORMER BANK PRESIDENT TRIED FOR MISMANAGEMENT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Trenton, N. J., March 13.—Following numerous postponements and other delays the case of Robert M. Petty, formerly president of the First National Bank of Washington, N. J., was moved for trial in the United States District Court here today. Petty was indicted for misusing the funds of the bank, and entered a plea of not guilty several times ago. Since then his trial has been postponed from time to time, while his friends made an effort to make good the alleged shortage and to adjust his financial affairs generally.

Everything Is In Fine Fettle

We're ready—yes, splendidly ready—with one of the grandest expositions of bright new Spring merchandise it has ever been our pleasure to announce, and we extend you an invitation to be present either tomorrow afternoon or Saturday afternoon or evening. You will find us prepared to fit you out from top-toe with the most beautiful creations of the master minds of the world of fashion. European ingenuity and American skill have combined to make this an event that will be long remembered by Janesville folk, and the lessons in economy we shall teach will be both pleasing and convincing. You'll come—of course, you'll come—and marvel at the immensity of the display made possible by our far-reaching influence on both sides of the Atlantic, and not the least important feature of this great occasion is our invariable policy of selling on a margin of profit so close as to prove that Janesville shopping is profitable.

BEAUTIFUL SUMMER DRESS BY REDFERN

Hand-embroidered batiste is the material of this charming dress for late spring and summer wear. The color, white, is in keeping with the basic simplicity of the motif.

Flowing lines, with the skirt rather small about the bottom and the waist line defined, remove it from the severity of many of the past season's models.

The ornamentation furnished by the embroidery is supplemented by many cloth-covered buttons, those on the skirt being large and heavy, while those on the waist are as small as conveniently may be. The use of buttons is characteristic of the season's styles.

TO SOON TURN OVER TAX ROLLS OF CITY

Books Will Be Put into Hands of County Treasurer on March 15—Some Taxes Unpaid.

Tax rolls of the city of Janesville will be turned over to County Treasurer Livernore by City Treasurer Muehchow on Saturday, March 15, and the few who have not paid the taxes assessed against them will have to do so before that time or pay a penalty of five per cent. The real estate taxes this year are paid up as well this year as last, at this time, but there is still a certain amount outstanding. Most of the unpaid taxes on personal property is that due on what was discovered in the re-assessment, and the owners of which have left the city. The unpaid income tax is also principally that of non-residents. The sales of real estate for unpaid taxes are held in May.

RECALL FACTION IS READY TO PETITION FOR MANDAMUS WRIT

Expected That Attorneys Would File Papers With Clerk of Circuit Court Late This Afternoon.

It was learned late this afternoon that the attorneys representing the recall element will file a petition asking for a writ of mandamus seeking to compel City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund to issue a certificate certifying to the sufficiency of the petitions and the names thereon to the Mayor and Council for an election of the three officials. If such a writ is granted the city clerk has ten to twenty days to file an answer setting forth why such certificate should not be filed and the matter will come up in the circuit court. Whether the certificate will be filed today or within the immediate future the attorneys for the recall element would not state this afternoon.

LARSON TO DISCUSS CONSOLIDATION PLAN

Rural School Inspector Will Give Address at Clinton Where Some Interest is Being Shown.

What may be an important step toward instituting a movement in Rock county to consolidate the rural schools will be a meeting at Clinton next Thursday evening, March 20, at which W. A. Larson of Madison, rural school inspector, will give an address on the consolidation plan. A number of the school districts adjoining Clinton village have been considering the advisability of consolidating with the village school and providing some means of transportation for the scholars in the country. The matter has been taken up with Supt. O. D. Ahlstedt and through him with Mr. Larson who has consented to submit some suggestions. It is expected that there will be a large attendance at the meeting.

It is pointed out that there are both advantages and disadvantages for districts near a village or city to consolidate with the city or village schools.

FOUR LAME MEN IN RACE FOR MANITOWOC OFFICE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Manitowoc, March 13.—A peculiar situation obtains in the race for nomination of city treasurer in the primaries here. There are five candidates all of whom are disabled by being lame, four of the members being troubled by defects of feet. The treasurer is the only nomination for which there is a contest.

APPLETON CLUB WOMEN WANT WOMAN POLICEMAN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Appleton, March 13.—Women's clubs here are talking of securing a woman policeman. There are at present two vacancies on the force in addition to chief and while there are fourteen applications on file the women are reported as desiring one of their own sex. It is doubtful if the fire and police commission will listen to an appeal in that direction.

MUST RAISE FUNDS TO AID CONVENTION

Finance Committee in Charge of Meeting of Grand Council U. C. T.

Seek to Raise $1,500.

Members of the finance committee of the local chapter, United Commercial Travelers, have begun a campaign for raising funds for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the convention of the Grand Council of Wisconsin which meets here for its fifteenth annual convention on June 5, 6 and 7. It is estimated that $3,000 will be required to properly finance the affair of which the order itself including the local council has pledged $1,600. In an appeal sent out the committee says:

"To make this convention a success we must ask the assistance of the citizens of Janesville. We do not ask the business men for advertisements but are advertising the city in the 3000 programs that are mailed to the members in the state. A list of the subscribers to this fund, but not the amount will be printed and will be presented to every member who registers."

S. B. Heddies, H. L. McNamara, C. B. Evans, T. E. Welsh and Chas. A. Muehchow, compose the committee.

THE SONG TRUST FOOLED AGAIN

An "Unknown" puts over the First Song Hit of 1913

Ever since "Come Back to Erin" and "Killarney," song writers have been attempting to "put over" a modern Irish ballad that would become equally popular.

A hitherto unknown writer, Frederick Knight Logan, has accomplished this with his song "Killarney, My Home O'er the Sea," and the so called "Song Trust" are astounded to think that this plan should have fallen to one outside their sacred portals.

With the composer's permission, we reproduce the chorus, so judge it for yourself.

Killarney, My Home O'er the Sea

And I long for dear Ire-land, Green
Isle of the West, where the shamrock and How its bloom'd for me, there the An-gels of Peace fold their bright wings and rest By the Lakes of Kil-lar-ney, my home o'er the sea.

At first glance you will say the lyric is common place, but a second perusal shows it to be well written, while the melody is about as sweet and dainty as any song ever heard, as it "lingers," and you will surely want to hear it over and over again.

Rheumatism
A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It

In the spring of 1903 I was attacked by rheumatism and inflammatory rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know. For over three years I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but no relief as I received was only temporary. Finally I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case. I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this remedy. It has no power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to you. If after you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of curing your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. But that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, March 13, 1873.—At it Again! Conrad's grocery owns the best feeling horse in town. The vigor and regularity with which he takes to himself legs and runs away is not encouraging to the wearied reporters in search of news. His line of flight this afternoon was down Court street hill, and he stopped suddenly at the foot of the hill just the wagon went to pieces and the driver alighted in undignified haste. Fortunately the latter was not injured.

Yesterday afternoon the occupants of an upper building, No. 25 West Milwaukee street emptied a bed tick from one of the windows, the contents falling upon the roof of an adjoining building; and in the alley between the two buildings. Shortly afterwards the straw was discovered to be on fire and before it could be extinguished the sides of the two buildings were badly charred. No alarm was given.

The county board of supervisors held a session in the forenoon, adjourning at noon. The report of the building committee, in reference to the improvement of the county poor house was agreed upon. By this action the board, some $400 will be expended in reconstructing the poor house.

A number of dead horses and cattle found lying in the ravine in the North-western outskirts of the city became offensive to the effluories of the residents of that portion of the city. With the fear in their minds some of the aforesaid citizens desire us to call the attention of the board of health to the carcasses.

Does electrocution kill? Or does it only render unconscious—the patient dying, in point of fact, upon the operating table, during the autopsy? There are able physicians who contend that such is the case. Again, others say that it is not—Popular Electricity.

IN A BIG CITY

"His eyes were dark as anthracite. His teeth were white as snow. Yet I didn't dare for fear he might— And he took his hat to go."

She was a handsome girl. You could see it in her face.

As he stepped up to her his expression, among other things, denoted surprise, delight, joy, agitation and affection.

"Well, well, well, well!" he exclaimed.

"I am glad you are so well," she rejoined, "but you have the advantage of me, sir. Pet me lass. I mean let me pass."

"And you actually don't remember?" he said mournfully, all the emotions enumerated in the first paragraph leaving his face at one time. With a lightning gesture he drew from his pocket a little note book, and opening it to page 702 he showed her a cross next to the date, March 25.

"See!" he exclaimed triumphantly. "I put that cross there as a memorandum of our meeting. Now do you believe me?"

"Yes," she said. "Forgive me."

And they repaired to a soda fountain, and there are young girls in our big cities taken in by smooth-tongued rascals.

WHILE SHE WAS AWAY

"It is glorious to have you home again, sweetheart," said Everett to his wife as he greeted her at the railroad station.

"The best part of going away is the coming home," replied Mrs. Everett. "Didn't you miss me at all? Your letters gave such glowing accounts of the way you got along without me that I was tempted to stay another week."

"Oh, we managed all right. But aren't you satisfied with your three weeks' visit at your mother's? You look so well."

"Yes, I'm feeling well and strong again. Jack, mother is simply a wonder. She never worries or frets about anything and I'm going to follow her example."

"Bully for you!" returned her husband as he helped her into the carriage. "At last you've got the right idea. You remember how the proverb goes—Never trouble trouble, until trouble troubles you. It is an excellent rule."

"How are the children?" asked Mrs. Everett as she leaned back in the carriage and, gazing fondly at her husband, noticed for the first time how careworn he looked.

"Corinne and Frederick have gone to your sister Lulu's for a few days."

"At Lulu's house? Why?"

"Well, James had the measles, so I sent them over there."

"James! My poor son!" wailed his mother. "Who took care of him? Is he very ill?"

"He's going out tomorrow. We had a trained nurse."

"Such expense, just for the measles! Was the nurse young and pretty?"

"Not exactly young and pretty," answered Everett, guardedly, "but very capable."

"I don't suppose Corinne has practiced her music while at Lulu's, as Lulu has no piano."

"She couldn't practice anyway. She cut her finger."

"How? Is there any danger of blood poisoning?"

"None whatever. The children wanted to earn some money, so they had a lemonade stand in front of the house. Your sewing table wasn't quite steady and when it came down all the glass was cracked and broken. Corinne in attempting to save it cut her finger on the pitcher."

"Not the cut glass pitcher that Aunt Mary gave us for a wedding present?"

"Exactly so! Aunt Mary happened to come the next day and she vented her anger on little Frederick by insisting that he take a bath before she left. Possibly he needed it more than the scolding she gave him. But Frederick rebelled and said he wouldn't be bossed by any old aunt who his mother said was a dreadful bore."

"Jack! How awful! Have you seen Aunt Mary since?"

"No, and I don't want to, either. I'll leave the apologies to you."

"How were the meals while I was away?" asked Mrs. Everett, anxious to change the subject.

"The cats were all right as long as the cook cooked them. But one day she tried to drown her sorrows in the port wine, and had to be taken to the police station. She came back for her clothes, but since then I can't find my gold cuff buttons and some of the silver is missing."

"My poor starved family! Did you get another cook?"

"No, Julia, the second girl, cooks eggs and potatoes well and they have been our chief sustenance."

"Julia is a good, faithful girl. I'm glad I brought her a nice present."

"You'll have to give it to her in a hurry, because she answered a matrimonial advertisement and is going to be married next week."

"I'm so glad, dear, that everything went along so smoothly while I was gone," said Mrs. Everett, satirically. "We are nearly home—have you told me all?"

"Let me think. James forgot to turn off the water and it leaked through on to the parlor furniture. But it doesn't look bad. The covering reminds me of watered silk. Julia was very much distressed that she forgot to pack away your fur coat, as you told her, and there are some moth holes in it."

"My fur coat! For goodness sake, don't tell me any more! The only thing I can think of that I don't have to worry about is our dog Toby. Nothing could happen to him."

"Edith, how can I tell you about Toby? You'll be so shocked," said Everett.

"Tell me the worst immediately! Did he bite anyone?"

"No, but he was run over by an automobile yesterday. We buried him back of the pansy bed."

"Toby killed? How horrible!" cried Mrs. Everett, wringing her hands in dismay. "Kind, gentle Toby, that looked after the children and was the best watchman we ever had! What shall we do without Toby?"

"We'll miss Toby, all right, my dear, yet we can do without him," said her husband. "But you see we can't do without you."

Mrs. Newrich.

"An' one other thing I want you to remember when you build the house is to put one of the finest elastic steps onto it that money can build."

"An elastic step, madam?"

"Yes, I was readin' how Miss 'Blue had a fine elastic step, an' I want one just like it or better."—Houston Post.

Happiness. Happiness is mostly a state of mind; the most persistent sinner we ever knew was a farm hand who had to work fifteen hours a day.

FAMOUS AMERICAN INDIANS

ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

ORONHYATEKHA.

Two twenty-year-old lads stood facing each other on a Canadian Indian reservation one day in 1861, while around them crowded brilliantly uniformed officers, civic magnates and gayly appressed Indians.

One of the boys was tall, slender, swarthy and was clad in the full regalia of a Mohawk chief. He was Oronhyatekha, lineal descendant of the great war chiefs of the "Six Nations."

The other boy—slim, light-haired, of medium height and arrayed in the uniform of a British colonel—was Albert Edward, prince of Wales, the recently deceased King Edward VII. of England.

Indian chief and British prince faced each other in a moment of awkward silence, while Oronhyatekha ransacked his brain for the flowery English speech of welcome he had so carefully prepared. He knew just what he wanted to say. But in this moment of stress his hardly-acquired knowledge of the English language utterly deserted him.

The Prince and the Indian.

The braves who had chosen the young fellow as their spokesman scowled at him and muttered under their breath. The gorgeous military and civic staff flinched uneasily. Suddenly Oronhyatekha's heavy face lighted with an inspiration. He burst forth into the speech he had planned. But instead of speaking English, he delivered the address in the purest classical Greek! The prince of Wales and his staff listened with open-mouthed amazement. They had expected to hear a dumpy orator grunt out a few ill-pronounced sentences in broken English. Instead, this moccasined, deerskin-clad savage was addressing his sovereign with perfect fluency in a dead language that comes only haltingly to the lips of many a college president. That speech made the young chief's fortune.

Oronhyatekha was born on the Six Nations reservation, near Brantford, Ontario, Canada, on August 10, 1841. While he excelled, as a child, in the rough sports and exercises of his fellow-Indians, he had almost a mania for study. He saw that education alone could lift him above the sordid life of his fellow-Mohawks. He learned all that the local industrial school could teach him. Then he managed to raise funds to take him to the celebrated old Wesleyan academy at North Wilbraham, Mass. There he quickly reached the head of his class and was graduated with high honors. From school to school he wandered. He had no money, so he turned his hand to any sort of work that would let him pay for books and tuition. Toiling in the daytime as a cobbler and woodchopper, he studied Greek and the higher mathematics until after midnight. At last he felt he was ready to enter one of the large universities. But he lacked money for such a course. It was at this crisis that his "chance" came.

The young prince of Wales was making a tour of the United States and Canada. He was due to visit the Six Nations reservation on a certain day. Oronhyatekha, as the best educated of the local Indians, was chosen to make the speech of welcome. When the prince of Wales heard the impromptu Greek oration he became at once keenly interested in the speaker. A few questions drew forth the Indian's life story. The prince at once took charge of Oronhyatekha's education. He sent the Indian to Oxford university. There he placed him under the tutelage of the royal physician, Sir Henry Acland.

By the time he returned to Canada Oronhyatekha was a physician of splendid ability. He settled in Ontario and quickly built up a large practice. Then in 1881 he chanced to get control of a decrepit insurance company. This he strengthened an enlarged until from it arose the famous fraternal society, the Independent Order of Foresters. His wealth and his importance to the community grew with each passing year.

A Canadian Celebrity. Meantime, while taking naturally to the life of a prosperous white man, Oronhyatekha did not wholly forget the warlike instincts of his ancestors. He took the field with the militia in more than one uprising and proved himself a fearless, brilliant soldier. He was also one of the finest marksmen in all Canada. Despite his success, Oronhyatekha was to the last an Indian of the highest type. He worked constantly for his people's welfare and uplifting. His wife was an Indian girl, great-granddaughter of Brant, the mighty Iroquois war chief. White men and red alike honored the "Mohawk Millionaire" as Oronhyatekha was nicknamed. He used his fast increasing wealth to build himself a princely home and to fill his life with every luxury. He traveled all over the world, was blessed by the pope, was the Egyptian Khedive's honored guest and was as much at home in a London or New York drawing room as in a Mohawk cabin.

Physician, philanthropist, insurance magnate, thirty-third-degree Mason, gentleman of leisure—Oronhyatekha, up to his death in March, 1907, was one of Canada's best known, most picturesque figures.

DINNER STORIES

"There!" said the young wife "So it is!" exclaimed her husband proudly, as she deposited the hot enthusiastically, looking it over critically on the table. "That's really marvellous. And as long as the first pie that I ever made without it is the very first, my dear, don't pride his own readiness in quoting the saying of one of Disraeli's heroes, you think that instead of cutting it, it would be nice to keep it for a souvenir? How would it do to have it framed?"

Mother (after relating pathetic story) New Reggie wouldn't you like to give your bunny to that poor little boy you saw today who hasn't any father?

Reggie (clutching a rabbit) Couldn't we give him father instead?

Sir William Fraser records with pride his own readiness in quoting the saying of one of Disraeli's heroes to "Dizzy" himself, together with the pleasure "Dizzy" took in being so quoted to. "Sitting next to him at Lord Shreybury's, cigars were handed round after dinner. He shook his head, and turning to me, said, 'The grave of love.' I replied, 'Tobacco is the tomb of love,' said Egremont, holding up a cigar. He looked very much pleased, and said, 'I apologize; I thought the remark was original.'"

One of the curiosities of the House of Commons, very rarely seen, was Erie Drax, for many years member for a Dorsetshire borough. Once, at a general election, on the day previous to the nomination, he put out the following address to his constituents: "Electors of Wareham! I understand that some 'evil-disposed person has been circulating a report that I wish my tenants, and other persons dependent upon me, to vote according to their conscience. This is a dastardly lie, calculated to injure me. I have no wish of the sort. I wish, and I intend, that these persons shall vote for me."

We Invite You Cordially.

Ready Tomorrow Morning.

Music Afternoons and Saturday Evening.

Be Sure and See the Display Windows.

The storm in the Southwest has moved a little farther east, and increased greatly in intensity, so that its influence extends over the greater part of the interior of the country. Rain has fallen everywhere except in Florida, New England, Ohio valley, New Mexico and western Kansas, and southern California. It is warmer by ten to fourteen degrees in the South-eastern states, where southerly winds are flowing into the barometric depression, and colder by 10 to 26 degrees in the Northwest where the northerly winds are flowing in. The temperature fell to 12 and 14 below zero in northern Saskatchewan this morning, with rising barometer, indicating a well developed area of high barometer in the Canadian Northwest. In this vicinity the weather will be showery this afternoon and tonight. It will continue warm until some time toward morning when the temperature will begin falling rapidly, and it will continue falling all day Friday, when the present southerly winds will change to Northwesterly in increase.

Felt She Was Neglected.
There was company in the parlor, and little Marjorie, overheard, listened longingly to the sounds of fun and laughter that from time to time floated up to her chamber. When, by and by, her mother came in for a last look and kiss, she found her darling wide awake and reproachful. "Oh, mamma," was the unexpected exclamation of the small maiden. "I've been so lonely, lying here all alone, while you were having such a liberal time downstairs."

Took Mother Literally.
Marian pointed to the glass or cup when she wished a drink, uttering inarticulate sounds intended to convey her desire. She was old enough to talk some, but she had never been taught to ask for a drink. Mother said to her: "When you want a drink, Marian, you say, 'Mamma, or papa, or Hazel, or Mildred, drink.'" The next time Marian wished a drink she pointed to the cup and said: "Mamma, papa, Hazel, Mildred, drink-ink-ink-ink!"

Winning the Greatest Things.
It is flattering to our lower nature to be envied. But for the esteem that is worth having, one kindly action, one tender, considerate word, will do more than the fullest measure of glittering success. Hustling, pushing, grabbing, will win many rewards according to their desert; the nature of the reward meets the nature of the effort. But they will not win affection, they will not win tenderness and love. —Exchange.

Does Friendship Do This?
"It may be true for some natures, as Leonardo said, that 'if you are alone you belong wholly to yourself; if you have a companion, you belong only half to yourself,' but it is certainly not so with me. With me friendship never divides; it multiplies. A friend always makes me more than I am, better than I am, bigger than I am. We two make four, or fifteen, or forty." —American Magazine.

Better Than Drugs.
For people who are severely troubled with the inability to sleep soundly, some diversion is needed, a party, an entertainment or theater. Reading poets and philosophers will help, and very often a hot drink will prove a great help in inducing a natural and restful sleep. But above all, breathe deeply of good pure air just before retiring, and have your sleeping room well ventilated.

Scientific Gardening in England.
By the use of French gardening methods, relying largely upon hotbeds and glass jars in the colder months, single acres of ground near London are being made to yield from $2,400 to $3,000 in vegetables annually. There is a product to market throughout the year. Melons, little grown in England, are forced by a steady temperature of 90 degrees, generated by manure.

MILLIONAIRE'S LOVE NOTES VERY, VERY TENDER; HIS POETRY PASSIONATE, TOO

Gertrude Hassler and Carl Fisher.

Indianapolis.—If Gertrude Hassler, church singer, is successful in her breach of promise action against Carl Fisher, who built a motor speedway and made a fortune with an automobile lighting device, Fisher will be poorer by a half million than he is now. The case is now being tried in Indianapolis and Miss Hassler wants just $500,000 in the way of harm.

According to Miss Hassler's story, she became acquainted with Fisher in 1902. She says he immediately fell wildly in love with her and begged for one of her velvet slippers. She told the jury that she helped Fisher with many ideas to attain his present position as head of a lighting device company.

On the stand Miss Hassler produced many letters which she said were sent her by Fisher. One of them, written in Europe, ended:

"O, I want you, how I want you, to press close to my breast."

Another letter which came from France read:

"Dutch, I am tired of this trip, tired of this country. I have had enough of it to last me ten years. I miss your arms and your kisses."

Fisher also sent her burning love letters.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

DOES IT PAY?

MUST I consume my life—this little life, in guarding against all may make it less? It is not worth so much—it were to die before my hour, to live in dread of death.

We were discussing traveling and the dangers incident thereto the other evening.

"There's one thing I hate to do," said the Author-Man, "and that's to sit on the side of the train toward the other track. I always go through the train till I find a seat on the other side."

"I never thought of that," said the Wants-to-be-cynic, "but I must say I hate to sleep eight or nine stories up in a hotel. I won't go above the fourth story if there's another hotel in town. One night I went to five hotels before I could find a room I'd take."

"I never stayed in a hotel but twice in my life," said Molly-the-little-stenographer-lady, "and then I was too pleased to be there at all to mind what story I was in. But there's one thing that always frightens me, and that is an elevator. I never get into one of those things without expecting to be killed. When I have only two or three stories to go, I always walk."

"How about you?" said someone turning to the Man-who-thinks, "you travel a lot, what's your special precautions?"

"Me?" said the Man-who-thinks, "I don't believe I have any."

"Aren't you ever afraid of anything?" asked Molly.

"Oh, yes," said the Man-who-thinks, "I suppose so, and I used to have quite a lot of precautions to follow. In fact, I used to carry a private life-preserver for ship travel, because I'd heard that the ordinary kind are likely to turn you upside down and drown you instead of saving you. But I finally decided it didn't pay."

"Why?" asked Molly.

"Well, I figured it out this way," said the Man-who-thinks. "By fussing and fretting over these things I was using up a certain amount of time and energy that I could never get back. Of course I might possibly save my life that way, but the chance was so small that I thought it didn't pay. It's like insuring your life at so high a premium that by the laws of probability you'd pay in twice as much as you'd ever get out. There's something in Julius Caesar about it's being better to die once than every day, and that's the way I feel about it."

"Oh, I learned that in school," said Molly. "Isn't this it?"

"Cowards die many times before their deaths; The valiant never taste of death but once. Of all the wonders that I yet have heard, It seems to me most strange that men should fear; Seeing that death, a necessary end, Will come when it will come!"

"And yet if Caesar had only been willing to heed the warning, and take a precaution or two, he could have lived twenty years more," said the Wants-to-be-cynic.

"But he couldn't have been Caesar," said the Man-who-thinks.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—What will whiten a yellow neck of years standing. (2)—Does a girl of 27 who lives in the country have much show to become acquainted with city fellows? (3)—Would city men like a good, sensible, educated girl from the country better than a city girl? (4)—Should a girl ask a young man to come to her home to see her? Should she know him long before doing so? (5)—Are old maids as a rule more unhappy than married women?

SUSAN J.
(1)—Massage the throat daily with some good cream. At night spread a whitening paste on a clean cloth and tie about the neck. The paste is made of the following: 1/2 oz. strained honey, 1/2 cup orange juice, 3 drops oil of bitter almonds, white of one egg, 2 drops oil of rose and enough rolled oats to make a paste. Next morning, after a good warm soda bath, spray the neck with a bleach made of 1/2 oz. rosewater, 1/2 oz. orange flower water, 2 1/2 drams borax, 1 oz. benzoin. In a week's time you will see an improvement. Keep up the massage with cold cream after the neck is whitened, powder slightly during the day and stop wearing high tight collars.

(2)—Yes. (3)—It depends on the girl. (4)—She can invite him and call shortly after they are introduced. (5)—No indeed.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—How many rings can a girl wear without making herself look vulgar and on which finger should she wear them? (2)—A certain young man is conceited and thinks I am crazy over him. How can I show him I am not? (3)—I am in love with a boy one year my junior. How can I make him love me without letting him know I love him. I am 19. (4)—Is it wrong to let a boy kiss you at a party in game of forfeit?

LONELY MARION.
(1)—Some girls like to wear a little finger ring and no other. One or two rings on the third finger of the right hand are permissible. (2)—Pay no attention to him. (3)—Why don't you select a MAN to fall in love with? You are old enough. Anybody can win puppy love. (4)—It's not very nice, but one shouldn't spoil the fun of the party.

CLEANS THE HAIR AND MAKES IT BEAUTIFUL—25 CENT "DANDERINE"

In a Few Moments Your Hair Looks Soft, Fluffy Lustrous and Abundant—No More Falling Hair or Dandruff—Delightful Dressing.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanser" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt, or any excessive oil—in a few moments you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of Dandruff, cleanses, purifies of the party. ***

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a boy of 18 and deeply in love with a girl of 15 and she says she loves me. But the last two times I went with her she did not seem like she did before. I think she is jealous, though I have told her I love her more than anyone. She doesn't seem to believe it.

ANXIOUS.
She is too young to know her own mind, and you are too young to know the kind of girl you can love for keeps. So better make up your mind not to have a steady girl until you can keep a wife and know how to make her happy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My scalp is terribly itchy. How can I stop it?
Wash well, apply a little kerosene to the scalp and try a fine comb.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of 14, large for my age. I have been keeping company with girls two and three years' my senior. Is it proper for me to do so?
Yes, if they are nice girls of whom your parents approve.

The KITCHEN CABINET

PEOPL who have warm friends are healthier and happier than those who have none. All the wealth of the world could not buy you a friend or pay you for the loss of one.

The manner of preparation and serving of food is as important as the food itself.

TESTED RECIPES.

Add a little lemon juice to the butter with which lettuce sandwiches are spread.

Gelatin Ambrosia.—Soak half a box of gelatin in a cup of cold water; when well softened add two cups of boiling water and three-fourths of a cup of sugar. Let this thoroughly dissolve before adding the juice of one and a half lemons with the grated rind. Strain, and when the mixture begins to thicken, put in two oranges cut in thin slices and add a half cup of shredded coconut. Serve cold.

Spanish Chicken With Rice.—Cut up a chicken for frying. In the frying pan put half a cup of olive oil and heat gradually, adding two bruised cloves of garlic. When the garlic is yellow, lay in the chicken and cook until well browned; add two sweet red peppers cut in strips, two white onions sliced, and continue cooking.

When the onions are brown, add four tomatoes sliced and a quarter of a pound of rice, cover with water or stock and simmer until the rice is tender, adding more stock and salt if necessary.

Indian Dressing.—Rub the yolks of two hard cooked eggs through a strainer, and add a fourth of a teaspoon of paprika, one teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of powdered sugar, a few grains each of cayenne and white pepper, a tablespoonful of lemon juice, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, and one-half cup of olive oil. When well blended add a tablespoonful each of red and green pepper cut in fine pieces and one teaspoonful of parsley chopped fine.

Woman Contractor.
Scharneggendorf, a growing and fashionable suburb of Berlin, prides itself on possessing the only woman builder and contractor in Germany. This is Frau Henkel, who has now carried on her business successfully for four years. The fact that she was the proprietor and manager of the firm of Henkel became public only the other day, however. The public authorities were asked to inquire into the business, as there was an allegation that it was not an independent concern. They found that Frau Henkel was the real and effective manager, and that she employed her husband as master of the works. The suggestion that she was acting for some one else was unfounded.—Dundee Advertiser.

Mosquitoes Attracted by Music.
In some parts of India, where mosquitoes abound, it is impossible to play the violin because the music attracts the insects in great numbers. When the first notes are heard, the mosquitoes swarm in clouds around the player and make the movements of the hand impossible.—Harper's Weekly.

One Woman's Way with a Maid

I HAVE just seen a sight that delights me," said Phoebe, as she drew up an easy chair before the studio fire.

"Tell us," chorused the little group gathered about the cheery blaze.

"I have just been going over Midge's new home. It's a dream. She planned it herself, you know, and as she has made a study of household economies in all its features, it is not only perfect from an artistic point of view, but it has all sorts of contrivances for saving work and steps, and everything of that sort. The kitchen is just like a well-equipped work-shop. But that wasn't what delighted me so much, though you know I am terribly fond of the right sort of kitchen. But one room in that house just tickled me to death."

"Well, for goodness sake, tell us about it," exclaimed Marjorie.

"Midge showed me her own room," went on Phoebe, tantalizingly. "It's a dream in rose. And the guest room's in blue. And there's another room for the sister, that is all delicate green and white. And then she threw open the door of another room that just seemed flooded with sunshine. I fairly gasped with delight when I stepped in, it was so cheery. There was a good reading light, and easy chairs, and a desk, and pretty pictures and some books."

"This is the prettiest room of all," I exclaimed. "Whose is it?"

"I think it is lovely, too," she said. "I put a lot of thought into this room. I wanted it to be just as pretty, if not prettier, than the others. It is for the maid."

"The Maid," chorused the listening group about the fire.

"Exactly," said Phoebe. "And that is what delighted me. And down stairs was another charming room which was to be the maid's sitting-room—and dining-room, too, if she wanted to use it for that purpose. Anyway, it was a pleasant room of her own, if she wanted to receive her friends."

"She'll spoil her maid," said one of the girls.

"Not a bit of it," rejoined Phoebe. "That's the way to get the right kind of maid. Even the most down-trodden sort will revive, and do the right kind of work with such a bedroom as that to welcome her at night, and such a place as that sitting-room to receive her friends in. But Midge is going to get a graduate of one of the domestic science schools, and she is going to treat her as she would any other capable and trained business woman."

"I'd like to see the two rooms a year from now," ventured one of the girls.

"I'll bank on Midge," said Phoebe. "She'll be ready for any emergency that may come."

"The domestic service problem has doored more capable women than she."

"That may be. But so far, they have all put it on a different basis from what she is doing. She is looking at it from a different standpoint altogether, and putting the work on a new footing. And I believe she'll be a winner."

"Well, any way," said one of the girls, "the experiment will be worth watching. I'd give a maid a room in purple and gold, if thereby I could get her to do what I wanted her to."

"Of course, you must first catch the right maid," said Phoebe.

"That is the joker," agreed the little crowd, gloomily.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

The Table.
Best Way to Cook Tongue—It is better to get 2 small tongues than 1 large one. Wash and put to boil in cold water, let come to a boil, pour off water, add boiling water and cook about 4-12 hours, or until tender. Do not pierce with fork until done. Remove from fire and let stand in liquor until cold, or over night. Never need a tongue until ready to serve. It will be tender and moist cooked this way.

Baked Liver and Bacon.—Wipe liver with damp cloth, then cut part way through into half inch slices and place bacon between slices. Fasten together with skewers, lay on pan smeared with bacon drippings. Set in hot oven and bake often. Careful watchings after the meat has been cooked 20 minutes will be necessary to order to prevent it getting too dry.

Escalloped Onions.—Remove outer skin, boil until tender, cut into quarters and place in buttered pan, cover with white sauce and buttered bread crumbs.

White Sauce.—Two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons milk. Melt butter in sauce pan, add flour and salt, pour in slowly the milk and bring to a boil.

Five Anise Cookies.—One cup each of sweet milk, butter and lard, three cups sugar, three eggs, one teaspoon soda (dissolve in milk), four teaspoons baking powder, flour to make soft dough (use as little flour as possible). Use anise, caraway or any flavor to suit. These make quite a number of cookies, but they keep well. For an ordinary family, half the amounts given will do.

Baked Prune Pudding.—Stew half pound prunes, stone, add one cup bread crumbs, one egg, one heaping tablespoon butter, one cup sugar. Alash with potato masher, stir in milk to make thin batter, bake in buttered crock (covered) one hour. Uncover and brown. This is simply delicious.

For Burns.
A mixture of castor oil with the white of egg is excellent for burns.

It allays the pain quickly and causes the wound to heal more rapidly than any other application.

The eggs are broken and emptied into a bowl and the castor oil gradually and slowly poured in while the eggs are beaten. Enough oil is added to make a thick, creamy paste, which is applied to the burn with a feather.

The applications are repeated often enough to prevent their becoming sticky or dry. It is best to leave off any dressings, leaving the surface uncovered.

Things Worth Knowing.

To Raise Bread in Cold Weather—After it has been mixed in the morning, make a hole in the center and get a quart fruit jar containing water little more than lukewarm; cover and in a short time the bread will rise sufficiently to mold into loaves. More warm water can be added if it cools, being careful not to have water too warm.

I have malleable range cook stove. I use scouring soap to clean it first then rub with a coat of oil. I never use anything but coal oil rag on stovepipe of kitchen stove; will remove grease.

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Gatchell Kirk

cause it is pretty hard to stay out in the kitchen preparing and cooking the dinner and washing dishes when husband and children are dressed up, sitting on the front porch in easy chairs or hammocks and visiting with a neighbor who has dropped in for a chat. Or if there is a daughter old enough to help she is at church or Sunday school, and some one had to stay home to watch the dinner. When a girl at home I remember how it seemed to spoil the best part of Sunday in getting dinner and washing dishes. In my own housekeeping I was always troubled—especially when it was a beautiful day—that my "helper" could never get out to enjoy the day until about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and that did not seem fair to her when this was a day for lessening the work rather than increasing it. So we tried many experiments, leaving this "stone" out very cautiously at first so as to be sure we had a good one to take its place. One that would make every one just as happy for the day and far better physically for the coming week.

In planning our meals for Sunday as much as possible is prepared on Saturday. In fact, my best plan recently has been on Friday, when writing out menus for Saturday and writing these down up to and including Monday's breakfast with my grocery order. Then I get better delivery service; for all my dry groceries which I shall need early Saturday for baking are all in Friday night or on the early delivery Saturday morning. My meat is also delivered early, for I gave the order Friday and it is roasted on Saturday for Sunday. In other words, have the Sunday dinner Saturday night, then with meat cooked, also plenty of potatoes, lettuce and other vegetables washed, wrapped in a damp cloth and put in a cold place for salad, a simple dessert made—if one is necessary—or a cake baked, dinner certainly is just as good and much less work. Sunday feasting is, and should be, a thing of the past. There are too many interesting things to be seen, fine concerts which are an education and inspiration, fresh air in abundance and the usual Sunday church services to be attended.

Let me suggest then the simplest possible food for Sunday, starting with breakfast. After church a luncheon for those who are at home in a "help yourself" style and each one held responsible for putting their things away. Sandwiches, fruit, bread and milk are all good for this meal. Some of the family may prefer taking their sandwiches and spending the day in the woods or country. In any event, it is a day where everyone should be free to enjoy the day "according to the dictates of his own conscience. Later in the day all turn homeward, and then it is an easy matter with every one to help to quickly spread the simple, wholesome evening meal which every one will enjoy all the more, knowing that no one member of the family has been deprived of what is justly theirs on that day—rest recreation and freedom.

Suggestions for Sunday Menus.
Roast beef, browned potatoes, buttered beets, lettuce salad.
Corn beef, creamed potatoes, cabbage salad, tapioca pudding, coffee.
Chicken (in fireless cooker), potatoes or rice, carrots, grapefruit, lettuce salad, coffee.
Leg of lamb, browned potatoes, cranberry sauce, peas, ice cream and cake.
Baked ham, mashed potatoes, turnips, spinach, fruit jelly, cake, coffee.

We might go on indefinitely suggesting various foods which may be prepared on Saturday and which will be just as palatable and wholesome served cold or reheated easily for Sunday, whether served at 1 o'clock or 6 o'clock.

Feed the mind more and the stomach less, as overeating leads to disease and all sorts of trouble in the future.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY.
Some outdoor employment or recreation for part of your time is necessary to your health. With this precaution your year will be prosperous and happy. If you are employed you will see an opportunity to advance.

Those born today will be of good disposition and will have ability but will be rather impractical, and their success will depend largely on their training and associates.

After Long Suffering
Women Are Constantly Being Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Worth mountains of gold," says one woman. Another says, "I would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all the other medicines for women in the world." Still another writes, "I should like to have the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound thrown on the sky with a searchlight so that all suffering women could read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their ills."

We could fill a newspaper ten times the size of this with such quotations taken from the letters we have received from grateful women whose health has been restored and suffering banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such a universal success? Why has it lived and thrived and kept on doing its glorious work among the sick women of the world for more than 30 years?

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has ever approached its success is plainly and simply because there is no other medicine so good for women's ills.

Here are two letters that just came to the writer's desk—only two of thousands, but both tell a comforting story to every suffering woman who will read them and be guided by them.

FROM MRS. D. H. BROWN.

Iola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone the bloating left me and I was not so pained a fair trial and also the Sani-flush. I continued taking it until I had taken 12 bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others."

MRS. WILLIAMS SAYS:
Elkhart, Ind.—"I suffered for 14 years from organic inflammation, male weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such a bearing down feeling, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sani-flush. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 455 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Banish Those Ugly Pimples

Skin Cleared in a Short Time by Stuart's Calcium Wafers, the Greatest Blood Purifier Known.

Pimples, blotches, skin eruptions of all kinds, are simply the impurities in the blood coming to the surface. All the external treatment in the world won't do a particle of good unless you purify the blood. And there's nothing so humiliating as a face that's all "broken out" and spotted.

Clean Your Back and Face of Pimples.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers will clear the most obstinate complexion, because they go right into the blood and remove the cause of the trouble. The blood is cleansed of all impurities and foreign substances and these are quickly eliminated from the system. You'll notice a wonderful change in a few days—you will hardly know yourself in a week.

And Stuart's Calcium Wafers are absolutely harmless to anyone. Their ingredients are just what a physician prescribes in most cases of skin eruptions and poor blood. These wafers are put up in a concentrated form, which makes them act quickly and thoroughly.

Begin taking Stuart's Calcium Wafers today and then look at yourself in the mirror in a few days, and find all those awful pimples, black heads, acne, boils, liver spots, rash, eczema and that muddy complexion rapidly disappearing and your face cleared like the petals of a flower.

You can obtain Stuart's Calcium Wafers at any drug store at 50 cents and there is now no reason why anyone should be disgraced by pimples or any other skin eruption.

SITE FOR CITY HALL DONATED TO CLINTON

Firemen's Association Gives Valuable Lot on Main Street for New Building—Will Bond Village.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Clinton, March 12.—One of the most important events that has occurred in Clinton for many a day was the action of the Clinton Firemen's Association at their meeting Monday night when they voted unanimously to deed their valuable lot on the east side of Main street to the village provided the village would erect thereon a city hall. The hall must, however, come to certain requirements which are made a provision of the acceptance of the gift such as a room on ground floor for the public library, hose carts and jail, besides a large auditorium with balcony.

The firemen have worked hard and patiently for several years past to acquire the property and pay for it which they have done and still have a few hundred dollars in the treasury. The crying need of Clinton for several years has been a city hall of proper size in which the people could meet and have ample room and be safe for any ordinary crowd.

It was certainly a good thing for the firemen to do and much praise and credit is due them.

Almost the entire board of trustees were at the meeting Monday night and each one expressed himself as heartily in favor of the project. A special election will have to be called to vote on the proposition to bond the village for sufficient funds for the purpose which is estimated all the way from seven to fifteen thousand dollars and there is no doubt it will carry by large majority.

Dies of Scarlet Fever.
Miss Vera Reed, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Reed died of scarlet fever Monday afternoon, aged 10 years, 8 months and 12 days. Interment was made in the village cemetery yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

Vera was a very winsome and lovable child and her death is a distressing thing to the entire community, and the afflicted parents have the sympathy of all.

Other Clinton News.
Miss Ella Corning only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Corning proprietor of the Park Hotel is very dangerously sick with bowel and stomach trouble.

Rev. P. Cooksley a former pastor of the Baptist church of this place is reported as critically ill.

Fifteen Clinton people attended the missionary institute at Beloit Monday.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

THE GRAND JURY

(By Howard L. Rana.)

THE GRAND JURY

THE grand jury is a collection of twelve spotless citizens who are paid for the day for sitting upon people suspected of breaking the law in two or three places. Sometimes a jury will sit down so hard on an offender that it will take thirty days in the county jail to straighten him out.

The most common sense with which the grand jury has to deal is the nefarious practice of selling red liquor by the half pint behind the livery barn. This report is usually known as a "blind pig," but it can be found with great ease by anything with two bits and a deep thirst. Whenever a total abstainer runs into it, he backs out and hires the proprietor before the grand jury, which is obliged by law to sample the goods in a profuse and genteel manner and decide whether a ten-quart pull of the product would intoxicate a growing boy. If a brother of the bootlegger happens to be on the jury, the "blind pig" is punished severely by being closed for two days in succession.

The grand jury is also frequently called upon to suppress with an iron hand the practice of playing penny ante in the Commercial club rooms. It is a humiliating thing for a citizen who can write his check for five figures to be hauled up before the grand jury and obliged to confess to being robbed of 69 cents and a new 50-cent necktie in a poker game. A grand jury composed of men who buck the board of trade for a living will take keen delight in indicting a prosperous business man for winning 75 cents with the aid of a cold deck.

The grand jury is seldom called upon to sit on people who distribute silverware and souvenir spoons at bridge whist parties, neither does it interfere with the wheel of fortune at the hotel fair. At every session of the grand jury somebody rushes in with a request, that a neighbor be indicted for running his tongue out over the back fence or stealing the eggs from a Plymouth Rock hen.

This is hard on the jury, as it forces the members to put in a bill for considerable extra per diem.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE ONE-LIFE.

There is intelligence in and over all things.

If we could forget all the theology we ever heard a study of nature would still impress us with this truth.

A vine reaches for support—a tree, a pole, a wire or a nearby wall. The action is intelligent. The plant recognizes environment and responds to it.

Similar facts are seen throughout the vegetable world. In a dry climate the roots go far down for water. Where the prevailing winds are from one direction the trees strengthen and brace themselves against them. Some blossoms turn their faces to the sun. The leaves of some trees curl to catch the approaching rain.

In animals this intelligence is yet more apparent. Through long generations they shape themselves to their environment. Their forms and habits of life become modified to meet new conditions. The action is intelligent, since it shows a perception of environment, yet it comes from something deeper than the animal's conscious mind.

Men are often conscious of a mind working within the mind. In moments of sudden danger they save themselves almost automatically and unconsciously. In hours of inspiration they grow greater than themselves.

So far as we know, the only thing that can initiate motion is mind. All life is full of motion, of growth, of self repair, the gathering and assimilation of food, the perception and response to things outside of the organism. All this motion must be initiated by some kind of mind, some sort of intelligence governing the living thing.

Wherever we find life we see evidences of this bigger intelligence. It matters not what we call it—nature, God or the over-soul—the signs of its existence are all about us. Better still, they are within us.

In man much of this intelligence is unconscious. The beating of the heart, the repair and building of tissues, the assimilation of food and of oxygen, all of these processes are manifestly intelligent, yet they are unconscious.

Man is now rising to the plane where he is becoming aware of the workings of this larger mind, this quickening power that is in and through all life.

He finds, for example, that the subconscious intelligence in himself responds to suggestions of his outer mind. Thoughts quicken the beating of his heart and affect other subtle processes.

The importance of this discovery, in the increase of energy, happiness, health and power, no one can yet measure.

Wonders of English.

The following letter from a native of India to a missionary gives proof of the surprising possibilities of the English language: "Dear Sir: My wife has returned from your hospital cured. Provided males are allowed at your bungalow I would like to do you the honor of presenting myself there this afternoon. But I will not try to repay you; vengeance belongeth unto God."

"Say, pop," inquired little Tommy, "what is the lull before the storm?" "The honeymoon, my son," replied his father.

AT PANTOMIME EDNA IS QUITE A SUCCESS

Edna Payne.

Edna Payne has been especially fitted by nature to see and be seen, particularly seen, as she is very, very pretty. That's one reason why she has been a success in the "movies." Another reason is her talent for putting her whole self into whatever character she portrays. Miss Edna has been in moving pictures for two years; previous to that she did stock company work. Her adeptness at pantomime won for her an offer from the Lubin people, and she likes the work and prospects so well that she has forsaken every legitimate stage ambition she ever had. Miss Payne's dark type of beauty often leads people to mistake her for French origin, but she is anxious that all who see her shall know her for a true American.

Fads and Fashion

New York, March 12.—The importers have given quite interesting exhibitions of the latest models for spring and summer wear and among them are some exceedingly attractive creations. There is still a strong tendency noticeable to retain the Turkish method of draping full skirts toward the front instead of toward the back, although an effort was made last autumn to reverse the fashion, however without success. Yet, after all, it is quite possible that the next few weeks will see the last of skirt that have all their fullness drawn to the middle front of the waist line by pleats. The line is not good and not even the most expert artist in drapery can make it attractive except in a few rare cases.

During the past two months the designers showed a desire to drop the drapery low in front and pull it up to the middle of the back on bias lines across the knees. The only disconcerting feature of this was the fear that it would lead to the buckle or at least the effect of a buckle in stiff drapery at the end of the spine. After all the majority of women can wear drapery that has its fullness in the back at the waist line far better than they can wear drapery arranged the other way. As for the pannier, there is no longer doubt of its popularity. It may not be placed exactly at the hips and it may not be stiffened out in an extreme fashion, but it is present in some form or fashion on many of the new frocks.

With it has come in the Watteau pleat and its initiator called the straight panel from shoulder to knees, hanging free of the waist and made of the same material but edged with another. When this panel is used it is held down to the figure with the Eastern sash which crosses to hips at the side, lifts up to the waist in front and is loosely knotted below the waist in the back.

Practically all the suits shown at the recent openings were conspicuously trimmed with buttons of original shapes and colors. Sometimes, as in the case of a ruffian frock in sulphur yellow, the large ball buttons matched the cloth in color. Contrasting ones were also used, especially of black and white with a colored suit. They were liberally displayed on almost every skirt shown.

All these skirts had drapery, but it was of a restrained sort in the wool materials. The kind that crosses in front or at the side, leaving the skirt open to considerably above the ankle, was a characteristic of several gowns. One of shepherd's plaid was open in front half way to the knee. With this was worn a cutaway coat of black satin. The slit is really necessary, as the skirt is so narrow below the knee that walking would be impossible if it were closed all around. In some cases the drop skirt also is made extremely narrow, but is slit up in the back where the opening will not allow. In this way a surprising ease of movement is given, while the effect of extreme narrowness is retained.

One of the season's novelties is a sleeveless Russian blouse, somewhat reminiscent of the jumper so popular a few years ago. It reappears in this changed guise now in figured silks, or some of the self-toned broadcloths. The trimming is of ornamental buttons, and there is a contrasting belt or girdle. It is worn over a thin waist, and, unlike the jumper, is to be put on or off as if it were a coat.

A sleeveless bolero is a feature of a recent Paris model in lustrous black silk. It is quite loose and is embroidered heavily in a Bulgarian design but not in colors. Under it a very wide, soft sash encircles the waist, is loosely knotted at one side toward the back, and falls in long ends, finished with heavy tassels. The waist worn under the bolero is of thin white silk crepe, very loose and formless, with full sleeve gathered into a cord at the depth of a dropped armhole, and again into a loose band a little above the wrist. The skirt is draped in long folds, crossing both back and front. Combinations of contrasting materials are increasingly shown. In one model four fabrics were employed. Chinese blue, broadcloth crepe, black satin, lace d'Angleterre, and black velvet. This multiplicity of fabrics is found in wraps also. Dolly Varden printed cotton materials are shown in combination with white. A French model has a coat of the flowered stuff with a skirt of white trimmed with buttons covered with the material of the coat. A little close fitting hat of the two materials, with tight bunches of tiny rosebuds goes with the costume.

Evening gowns for young women are generally white or cream, yet some only recently made by famous designers are of cherry panna, without a train, and exceedingly pretty and interesting; not at all heavy or old.

Skirts for young girls' frocks, particularly those for the evening, are almost entirely untrimmed. Tunics are reserved for older women. A pretty way to finish off such virgin simplicity is to have embroidery about the hem of the skirt of some flower, say Marguerites, forget-me-nots, etc., in the natural colors.

The arrangement of girdles, sashes, belts or shaped bands well below the normal waistline is a new style which is rapidly becoming prominent. At first this style was seen only on Balkan blouses. Now they appear on smart afternoon frocks, evening gowns and street dresses. The girdle which finishes the waistline on these models extend about two inches above and several inches below the waist. It almost appears as a skirt yoke. Evening gowns have soft sashes of tulle crepe or ribbon loosely arranged several inches below the normal waistline in a crushed girdle effect, ending at the left hip. Long ends fall nearly to the skirt edge.

Rhinestone ornaments are used on skirts to loop up drapery and to hold sashes in place at the foot of the skirt. Big bowknots are most effective. Sometimes the skirt drapery is composed of soft ribbon and a wide strand of maline, chiffon or silk net. The effect of the ribbon and the net together held by the rhinestones is charming.

Velvet is combined in every possible way with thin stuffs for summer frocks. One of the most novel uses shows a wide velvet hem set under a flounce of needlework embroidery which edges the skirt of a lingerie gown. The velvet, of course, is used also for girdle and for touches about the bodice. The whole effect is rich and interesting and could be developed in any color.

The popular white broadcloth silk is effectively made up in plain shirtwaist with box-plaited front closing of bright colored satins—cerise, blue, yellow and green—and matching glass buttons for front and cuff fastenings. Collars and cuffs of colored satin are also used in combination with the colored plait.

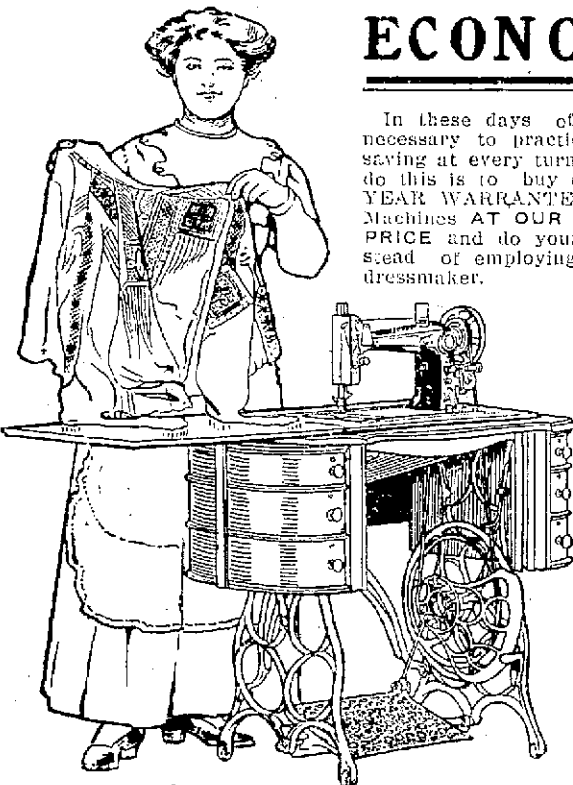

White silk stockings, embroidered in colors, with gold and silver thread intermingled with the color, show the demand for rhinestone trimming. The centers of the flowers so elaborately formed are composed of tiny, bright stones.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor the Gazette:

It seems to me that while we are casting about in search for new industries to locate in Janesville it may not be amiss to see how these industries are faring which we now have and which have been our mainstays for these many years.

I have in view one industry which in my opinion has been but little appreciated by the people of Janesville.

It is one of those peculiarities of human nature that though by far the larger amount of our money is spent in triflingly small amounts, yet we seldom realize it. Perhaps it is due to this mental phenomena that so little consideration has been given the industry which I have in mind—that of the cigar industry.

There are in Janesville about three thousand men who smoke cigars and their daily average will easily come to twenty-five cents each. This little sum in the course of a year runs up to $81.00, and when multiplied by three thousand makes the huge sum of $243,000.00. Now let us see what this means to the merchants of Janesville.

This means that the dealers sell each month approximately 25,000 five and ten cent cigars, for which they pay the manufacturers about $11,750, and when the year has passed they will have drawn checks to the tune of over one hundred thousand dollars. And now for the bug beneath the chip.

How many factories are there in Janesville that can dispose of one hundred thousand dollars' worth of product to the merchants of this city each year? Yet that would be possible for our cigar factories to do, and right here is the bug. Of this total of over $100,000 our cigar dealers leave less than $30,000 for the local manufacturers, while they send over seventy thousand dollars as pin money for the trust and other eastern concerns.

Don't you think that this question is of sufficient importance to warrant looking into? Would it not be a good idea for the Commercial club to bend its energies with a view of stopping this "commercial bleeding"? We hear much these days about "Buy it in Janesville." If it is a good thing for the merchants to have the consumer "buy it in Janesville," would it not be also good for the home manufacturer and his workmen to have the merchant "buy it in Janesville"? Isn't the sance that is good for the gander good for the goose?

Commercial blood-letting is not always practiced by one element alone. It is often practiced by two, and stopping it at one end often only increases the flow at the other end. If every consumer would "buy it in Janesville" while the merchant would "buy it" elsewhere it would no doubt be a good thing for him, but how about the manufacturer and his employees? Where would they come in? Let us be consistent. Let us realize that the merchant is a consumer to the manufacturer in the same relation that the public is to the merchant, and the slogan, "Buy it in Janesville!" should have the same meaning to every consumer.

FEEL BULLY? TAKE CASCARETS TONIGHT.

A 10 cent box will keep your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure, and fresh for months.

Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath—always trace them to torpid liver, delayed fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach.

Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the system is reabsorbed into the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Salts, cathartic pills, oil and purgative waters force a passageway for a day or two—yes—but they don't take the poisons out and have no effect upon the liver or stomach.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, indigested and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poisons in the bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means your head, clear, stomach sweet and your liver and bowels clean and regular for months.

An Announcement of Unusual Interest to Motor Car Owners

Mr. Oliver Gleason in Charge of Mechanical Department of Janesville Motor Co.

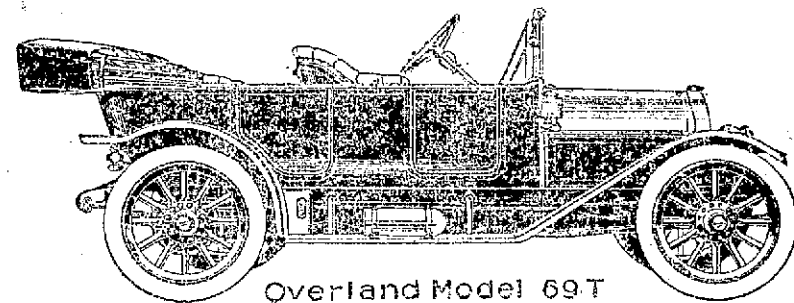

MR. GLEASON, until lately connected with the Swiss Magneto Co., of Chicago, and prior to that with the Wisco Motor Co., of this city, and who is well and favorably known to every motor car owner in this part of the state, is now in charge of the mechanical department of this business.

A new magneto equipment has been installed for charging magneto and testing out magnetos. Special attention will be given to magneto troubles. Other special equipment has been added, making ours the best equipped shop mechanically in this part of Wisconsin.

Mr. Gleason is an expert of the first order and will greatly enhance the service of this company.

Overland

Over fifteen thousand Overlands have been delivered during the last five months. This is more cars than all the automobile factories of Germany turn out in a whole year. This is an increase of 300 per cent over the same period last year. And last year the Overland company led every thousand dollar automobile producer in America. We led every dealer in Janesville last year. The Overland company's sales for 1913 are more than double those of any other manufacturer producing a similar car. Our sales here in Janesville for 1913 will be double those of any other dealer handling a similar car. The Overland outsells because it outclasses. Overland value is better because it is bigger. You get more car for less money.

The STOLEN SINGER

by MARTNA DELLINGER

Before his speech was finished, James, according to the good old fashion, was down on his knees before his lady, and had imprisoned one of her hands. Stole she was, not to yield! Her eyes had a suspicious moistness, as she shook her head.

"You will always be the most gallant, unselfish friend I have ever known. But—"

"But—what?"

"Marry you I can not."

"Why not?"

"I can not marry anybody."

Then Jimmy said a disgraceful thing. "You kissed me once. Will you do it again?"

At this impudence, she neither got angry nor changed her mind—a bad sign for Jimmy. She put his hand away, saying: "You must forgive me the kiss."

Jimmy jumped to his feet with an other inarticulate sound, every whit as bad as an oath, and stood before her.

"Agatha Redmond, will you marry me?"

"No."

Jim turned in his tracks and left the wood.

Two hours later, at supper, Jim was inquired for.

"Our last supper together, and Mr. Hambleton not here!" mourned Chamberlain.

Agatha felt guilty, but could scarcely confess it. "You are all invited for next year, you know," she said.

"And we're all coming," announced Melanie. "But poor Mr. Hambleton will miss his supper tonight."

The "poor Mr. Hambleton" struck Agatha. "I think Mr. Hambleton is doing very well indeed. I saw him start off for a walk this afternoon."

"Jim's a chump. Give him a cold punch," jeered Aleck.

But after supper was over, and the twilight deepened into darkness, Agatha sought Aleck where she could speak with him alone.

"I think Mr. Hambleton was troubled when he left here this afternoon," she said. "Can you think where he would be likely to go? He is not strong enough to bear much hard exercise yet."

Aleck looked at her keenly.

"If he went anywhere, I think he'd go straight to the yacht."

"I feel a little anxious, somehow," confessed Agatha.

Chamberlain's voice broke in upon them. "Anybody ready to take me down to the Sea Gull in the car?"

As Aleck started for the machine, the anxiety in Agatha's face perceptibly lightened. "And may I go with you?" she asked eagerly.

CHAPTER XXIV.

After You, Monsieur!

Jim had no desire to create a sensation among his friends at the old red house; but as he left the pine grove all his instincts led him to flee in another direction. He did not at all realize just what had happened to him, but he was conscious of having received a very hard jolt, indeed. The house, full of happy associations as it was, was just now too tantalizing a place. Aleck had won out, and he and Melanie were radiating that peculiar kind of lover's joy which shines on the eve of matrimony. Jim wished them well—none better—but he also wished they wouldn't make such a fuss over these things. Get it done and out of the way, and the less said about it the better. In fact, Jim's buoyant and sunny spirit went into eclipse; he lost his holiday ardor, and trudged over the hill and into the shore road in a state of extreme dejection.

But he lingered on the way, diverted almost against his will by the sight of fishing smacks putting into harbor, an island steamer rounding a distant cliff, and the Sea Gull lying motionless just within the breakwater. Women may be unkind, but a ship is a ship, after all. One can not nurse the pain even of a shattered heart when running before a stiff wind with the sunbaker set and an open sea ahead.

The thought decided him. The sea should be his bride. Jim did not stop to arrange, at the moment, just how this should be brought about, but his determination was none the less firm. He became sentimental to the extent of reflecting, vaguely, that this was but philosophic justice. The sea had not conquered him—far from it; neither should she conquer him. He would follow the sea, the path of glamour, the home of the winged foot and the vanishing sail, the road to alien and mysterious lands—

Thus Jimmy, in reaction from the Arctic docture, to which his emotional self had been subjected. He was, figuratively speaking, blue with the cold, but trying valiantly to warm himself.

As he gazed at the Sea Gull, asleep on the flood tide, cutting a gallant figure in the glowing sunset, he felt an overmastering longing to be aboard. He would stay on the yacht until Chamberlain came, at least; possibly all night.

Having made up his mind on this point, James persuaded himself that he felt better. Philosophy is a friend in need, after all. Why should one failure in getting one's desires crush the spirit? He would make a right-about-face, travel for a year on a sailing vessel, see the world. That was it. Hang the shoe business!

Immersed in mental chaos such as these fragments of thought suggest, Jim did not perceive that he was being overtaken until a slow greeting came to his ears.

"Good evening, friend." It was the deliberate wide-eyed youth of the Reading-room.

"Ah, good evening."

"If you are on your way to the Sailors' Reading-room, I wish to inform you that I have been obliged to lock up for tonight, on account of an urgent errand at the village." Jimmy stared vacantly for a moment at the pale, washed-out countenance of his interlocutor. "I thought I'd tell you," the youth went on in his copy-book style, "so as to save your taking the long walk. I am the librarian of the Reading-room."

"Ah, thank you. But I wasn't going to the Reading-room tonight. I am on my way to the village."

"Well, there's a large majority of people do go to the Reading-room, first and last," the youth explained with pride. "And some of them are not worthy of its privileges. I am on my way now to prevent what may be a frightful accident to one who has enjoyed the benefits of our work."

Jim gazed at the youth. "A frightful accident! Then why in Heaven's name don't you hurry?"

The youth exhibited a slightly injured air, but did not hasten.

"I was just about to continue on my way," he said, "when it occurred to me that you might be interested to know."

"That's good of you. But what is it all about?"

"Some time ago, a very profane and impatient gentleman, waiting for money to be telegraphed him from New York—"

"Well, man, go on! Where is he?"

"I know nothing about the movements of this ungodly person, but it appears that today, for the first time in its history, the quarry you ponder has been robbed. Circumstances lead the manager to suspect that this same gentleman was the perpetrator of the theft, and I am on my way to further the ends of justice."

"No need to be so particular about calling him a gentleman. But what is the accident likely to be?"

"It is feared that the thief may not be aware of the nature of the article he has stolen, and it is very dangerous."

"What on earth is it?"

"It is a fairly large-sized stick of dynamite."

The youth might have been discussing a fancy dance, so suave and polite was he. Jim interrupted rudely.

"Dynamite, is it? Good. If it's old Chatelard, he ought to blow up. Serve him right."

"I'm surprised and pained at your words, my dear friend. No soul is worthy—"

"Yes, it is. Which way did he go?"

"I don't know. The manager sent me to inform the sheriff."

"It won't do any good. But you'd better go, all the same."

The judge in chancery went on his dignified way. He would not have hurried if he had heard Angel Gabriel's trump. The news he had brought was in the class to be considered important if true, but there was nothing in it to alter Jimmy's plans. He took the shortest cut to the shore, found a fat-bottomed punt that was regarded by the village as general property, and pushed off.

The Sea Gull was a tidy craft, and looked very gay with even the half of her festival flags on view. But the gaiety did not beguile Jim's dampened spirits. He went aboard feeling that he'd like to rip the idiotic things down; but the yacht, at least, offered a place where he could think. The sunset light on the water blazed vermilion—just the color that Jim all at once discovered he hated. He looked down the companionway, but finally he decided to stretch out on deck for a few minutes' rest. He was very tired.

Off on the stern was a vague mass which proved to be a few yards of canvas carefully telled on the floor. Some gimcrack belonging to the ship's ornamentation had been freshly gilded and left to dry, protected by an old sail-cloth. This, weighted down by a rusty marlinpike, spread couchlike along the taffrail, and offered to Jim just the bed he longed for.

GUARDS HIS CHILDREN'S HEALTH BY USING FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

Always Cures Their Colds, Says Father

A Safe Family Medicine for Throat and Lungs.

Prevents Pneumonia, Builds New Flesh and Strength.

In a recent letter from Council Bluffs, Ia., a grateful father says: "Our boy contracted an ugly cough and no matter what medicine we used it did not help him. We consulted two different doctors but their medicine did him no good. We hoped that the warm summer weather would cure his cough, but it did not. Then my wife remembered that friends of hers in the East recommended Father John's Medicine for colds and coughs. We sent for a bottle and it cured our boy. Since that time we always keep it in the house and give it to both our children as soon as they have a cold. It always helps them. We induced my father to use it for his bronchitis and it helped him wonderfully. I am sending you a picture of two children, hoping to help in advertising your good medicine." (Signed) Edward Tornet, Council Bluffs, Ia.

Because it is free from alcohol or dangerous drugs in any form, Father John's Medicine is a safe medicine for all the family. It cures colds, throat and lung troubles, bronchitis and prevents pneumonia and at the same time builds new flesh and strength.

If you have any difficulty in securing Father John's Medicine from your druggist, write to Father John's Medicine, Lowell, Mass., enclosing $1.00 for a large bottle by express prepaid.

Instant Relief from Eczema

You can stop that awful itch from eczema and other skin troubles in two seconds.

Seems too good to be true—but it is true, and we vouch for it.

Just a few drops of the simple, cooling wash, the D.D.D. Prescription for eczema, and the itch stops instantly. We give you enough to prove it for 50 cents.

Now, if you have tried a great many cures for eczema and have been disappointed, do not make the mistake of refusing to try this soothing wash. All other druggists keep this D.D.D. Prescription—go to them if you can't come to us—but if you come to our store we will give you the first dollar bottle on our positive no pay guarantee, that D.D.D. will stop the itch at once.

D.D.D. Soap keeps the pores healthy; ask us about it.

Nature's Method of Protection.
There have been brought to light an astonishing number of forms of fish, and especially of prawns of a brilliantly red color, living in the ocean at a depth of 3,000 feet. But, astonishing as it may seem, these brilliant colored fish and prawns, instead of being conspicuous in the water at that depth, are nearly invisible, when almost any other color could be easily seen.
